Unit description This unit examines the role of remuneration and performance management systems in contemporary organisations. Utilising theory and practical examples, the unit will enable students to identify the essential elements required to design a comprehensive remuneration and performance management system that delivers strategic value to a range of stakeholders, including the organisation and workers. Problem solving skills will be emphasised.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

ULO1: Identify and apply the different approaches to managing performance and reward systems in contemporary organisations.

ULO2: Explore and critically evaluate the theoretical underpinnings of performance and reward strategies, applying this theoretical knowledge to solve problems and develop outcomes relating to performance and reward systems within a number of organisational contexts.

ULO3: Critically analyse and compare contemporary performance and rewards strategies individually or within a group to identify their strengths, weaknesses and impact on stakeholders and organisational performance.

ULO4: Evaluate and communicate the strategic value that performance and reward strategy contribute to the holistic development of contemporary Human Resource Management (HRM) systems in support of delivering organisational goals.

General Assessment Information

Late Assessment Submission Penalty (written assessments)

If you submit your assessment late, 5% of the total possible marks will be deducted for each day (including weekends), up to 7 days. Submissions more than 7 days late will receive a mark of 0.

Example 1 (out of 100): If you score 85/100 but submit 20 hours late, you will lose 5 marks and receive 80/100.

Example 2 (out of 30): If you score 27/30 but submit 20 hours late, you will lose 1.5 marks and receive 25.5/30.

Extensions:

Automatic short extension: Some assessments are eligible for automatic short extension. You can only apply for an automatic short extension before the due date.

Special Consideration: If you need more time due to serious issues and for any assessments that are not eligible for Short Extension, you must apply for Special Consideration. Need help? Review the Special Consideration page for further details.

Skills development: Performance management case analysis

Assessment Type ¹: Problem-based task

Indicative Time on Task ²: 20 hours

Due: 16/10/2026

Weighting: 40%

Groupwork/Individual: Individual

Short extension ³: Yes

AI Approach: Open AI

The purpose of this assessment is to develop your ability to diagnose performance-related challenges and design evidence-based people management strategies, reflecting core responsibilities of Human Resource Management professionals.

You will apply course concepts, theory, and empirical evidence to critically analyse a performance management issue presented in a case study. Drawing on relevant HRM literature, you will evaluate the causes and implications of the issue and argue for an appropriate performance and development strategy that supports both employee effectiveness and organisational outcomes.

Skills in focus:

- Communication skills
- Critical thinking and problem solving
- Discipline knowledge

Deliverable(s): Written report [max 1500 words], excluding supporting materials and appendices.

Individual assessment

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and apply the different approaches to managing performance and reward systems in contemporary organisations.
- Explore and critically evaluate the theoretical underpinnings of performance and reward strategies, applying this theoretical knowledge to solve problems and develop outcomes relating to performance and reward systems within a number of organisational contexts.
- Critically analyse and compare contemporary performance and rewards strategies individually or within a group to identify their strengths, weaknesses and impact on stakeholders and organisational performance.
- Evaluate and communicate the strategic value that performance and reward strategy contribute to the holistic development of contemporary Human Resource Management (HRM) systems in support of delivering organisational goals.

Professional practice: Applied feedback analysis

Assessment Type ¹: Professional task

Indicative Time on Task ²: 20 hours

Due: 02/11/2026

Weighting: 30%

Groupwork/Individual: Individual

Short extension ³: Yes

AI Approach: Open AI

The purpose of this assessment is to develop your capability to analyse performance and provide constructive, evidence-based feedback—key responsibilities of Human Resource Management professionals involved in managing and developing people for organisational success.

You will apply course concepts, theory, and empirical evidence to evaluate the contributions of your peers in group work, assess their impact on team performance and outcomes, and provide clear, development-focused feedback. Your analysis and recommendations will reflect HRM approaches to performance review, developmental feedback, and continuous improvement, and will be supported by relevant theoretical and empirical evidence.

Skills in focus:

- Work readiness
- Communication skills
- Critical thinking and problem solving
- Discipline knowledge

Deliverable(s): Written report [max 1000 words], excluding supporting materials and appendices.

Individual assessment

- Identify and apply the different approaches to managing performance and reward systems in contemporary organisations.
- Explore and critically evaluate the theoretical underpinnings of performance and reward strategies, applying this theoretical knowledge to solve problems and develop outcomes relating to performance and reward systems within a number of organisational contexts.
- Critically analyse and compare contemporary performance and rewards strategies individually or within a group to identify their strengths, weaknesses and impact on stakeholders and organisational performance.

Professional practice: Persuasive communication

Assessment Type ¹: Presentation task

Indicative Time on Task ²: 15 hours

Due: Weekly

Weighting: 30%

Groupwork/Individual: Group

Short extension ³: No

AI Approach: Observed

The purpose of this assessment is for you to apply course concepts, theory, and empirical evidence to demonstrate your knowledge in the form of a group presentation.

You will present the theoretical and empirical knowledge from the unit, and apply it to a real-world organisational example supported by theoretical and empirical evidence.

Skills in focus:

- Collaboration and communication
- Work readiness
- Critical thinking and problem solving
- Discipline knowledge

Deliverable(s): Group presentation (15 minutes approx.)

Group assessment

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and apply the different approaches to managing performance and reward systems in contemporary organisations.
- Explore and critically evaluate the theoretical underpinnings of performance and reward strategies, applying this theoretical knowledge to solve problems and develop outcomes relating to performance and reward systems within a number of organisational contexts.
- Critically analyse and compare contemporary performance and rewards strategies individually or within a group to identify their strengths, weaknesses and impact on stakeholders and organisational performance.
- Evaluate and communicate the strategic value that performance and reward strategy contribute to the holistic development of contemporary Human Resource Management (HRM) systems in support of delivering organisational goals.
