Unit description
This unit provides an understanding of the fundamental principles of International Human Resources Law. The unit is designed to emphasize international issues that emerge in human resource law. As human labour becomes more mobile, the implementation and jurisdictional rights of national laws regulating human resources law is challenged. Climate change, migration and expansion of capitalism into countries such as China, Saudi Arabia, South Pacific Islands and India has had an impact on current labour law protection. Corporations and businesses now have the technology and freedom to hire their workforce from many different countries. This is problematic because there is often a disparity between the development of labour law protection, cultural sensitivity and human rights in some of these countries. An example of this is the laws regulating child labour, workplace safety standards and practices can vary enormously between different countries. This unit is designed to provide an international perspective about many legal and ethical issues emerging in labour law and its impact on our society.

Policies and Procedures

Macquarie University policies and procedures are accessible from Policy Central. Students should be aware of the following policies in particular with regard to Learning and Teaching:

In addition, a number of other policies can be found in the Learning and Teaching Category of Policy Central.

Academic Honesty

The nature of scholarly endeavour, dependent as it is on the work of others, binds all members of the University community to abide by the principles of academic honesty. Its fundamental principle is that all staff and students act with integrity in the creation, development, application and use of ideas and information. This means that:

- all academic work claimed as original is the work of the author making the claim
- all academic collaborations are acknowledged
- academic work is not falsified in any way
• when the ideas of others are used, these ideas are acknowledged appropriately.

Further information on the academic honesty can be found in the Macquarie University Academic Honesty Policy at http://www.mq.edu.au/policy/docs/academic_honesty/policy.html

Graduate Capabilities

Capable of Professional and Personal Judgement and Initiative

We want our graduates to have emotional intelligence and sound interpersonal skills and to demonstrate discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgement. They will exercise initiative as needed. They will be capable of risk assessment, and be able to handle ambiguity and complexity, enabling them to be adaptable in diverse and changing environments.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- The role of labour law in Australia and globally.
- How human resources law is developed and enforced both locally and internationally.
- The role of international legal obligations for Australia
- The role of international treaties and charters on labour law
- The ethical debate surrounding this area
- The role of 'human rights' within the labour community
- The role of State sovereignty in human resources law

Commitment to Continuous Learning

Our graduates will have enquiring minds and a literate curiosity which will lead them to pursue knowledge for its own sake. They will continue to pursue learning in their careers and as they participate in the world. They will be capable of reflecting on their experiences and relationships with others and the environment, learning from them, and growing - personally, professionally and socially.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Assessment task

• Essay (b)

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes
