Unit description
Central to this unit is an understanding of child development through reading, critiquing and conducting empirical research. The approach to this unit is twofold. First, the unit includes selected contemporary child development topics that are of direct relevance to quality in early childhood settings. Second, the unit supports in-depth investigation of an area of interest in child development through projects such as a literature review, case study or involvement in a current child development research project through the Institute of Early Childhood/Children and Families Research Centre. It is assumed that students undertaking this unit have completed previous studies in child development.

Important Academic Dates

Delivery and Resources
The unit is delivered predominantly online. There are two non-compulsory on campus sessions scheduled for 16 March, 2013 and 1 June, 2013.

The two textbooks are available as e-books from Macquarie University Library.

In addition, five prerecorded lectures are available to support students' completion of the assessment tasks.
Unit Schedule
The aim of this unit is for students to extend their foundational knowledge in child development by researching a specific area of interest. In order to prepare for this, students undertake self-guided reading of the prescribed texts to select a topic of focus before undertaking wider research in their chosen area.

Policies and Procedures
Macquarie University policies and procedures are accessible from Policy Central. Students should be aware of the following policies in particular with regard to Learning and Teaching:

Graduate Capabilities

PG - Discipline Knowledge and Skills

Our postgraduates will be able to demonstrate a significantly enhanced depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content knowledge in their chosen fields.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate in-depth understanding of one or more specialist areas of child development
- Apply their understanding of child development research to analyse early childhood policy and programs
- Adequate research skills to conduct small-scale empirical investigations
- Effective communication of child development research to parents and other professionals
- Use research skills to evaluate child development programs implemented as part of professional practice

Assessment tasks

- Assignment 1
- Assignment 2
- Assignment 3

PG - Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

Our postgraduates will be capable of utilising and reflecting on prior knowledge and experience, of applying higher level critical thinking skills, and of integrating and synthesising learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments.
