Unit description
This unit explores multimodality “the role of images and their interaction with language and other modes of communication” in early childhood. The initial focus is on visual representations of children and childhood in advertising, marketing and popular culture. This equips students with a variety of critical concepts and provides a context for analysing relations between different modes in multimodal texts and environments for children, including picture books, e-games, toys and toy stores, educational policy documents, museums, and early childhood settings.

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://students.mq.edu.au/important-dates

Learning Outcomes

1. Use a metalanguage for discussing how images construct meanings and operate in different social and cultural contexts
2. Develop a metalanguage for discussing how images interact with language and other modes of communication
3. Evaluate how multimodal texts and environments for children support learning and literacy development
4. Develop a strong understanding of how to promote the development of critical visual and multimodal literacy in children from diverse linguistic and cultural backgrounds through multimodal texts and environments
5. Demonstrate an understanding of recent research literature on visual communication, multimodality and multimodal learning and literacy
6. Reflect on one's own visual and critical multimodal literacy, and draw on these reflections to improve one's academic and professional communication skills

Delivery and Resources

Study commitment

As this is a 4 credit point unit, it is estimated that students will need to spend an average of 12 hours a week over a 15 week semester (this includes the university recess), i.e. 180 hours per semester, working on this unit to achieve a passing grade. This includes accessing the unit’s iLearn website at least twice a week and participating in online discussions, attending seminars and on-campus sessions, attending or listening to lectures, reading and studying, working on assignments.

Principal requirements
As postgraduate students, you are expected to participate fully in this unit, be self-directed in your learning, and approach the unit content with enthusiasm. To achieve a passing grade, you need to:
§ attend, prepare for and actively participate in at least 80% of weekly seminars (internal students)
§ complete, post and discuss study-guide tasks online (external students)
§ complete the required readings and participate in online discussions (all students)
§ complete and submit all three assignments (all students)
§ complete all required readings (all students)
§ check the unit’s iLearn website at least twice a week (all students).

STUDY RESOURCES

Required readings and other resources

There is one textbook for the unit, which is available from the Macquarie Co-op Bookshop. The details are:

There are also required readings and other resources that will be available through the library’s e-reserve collection and/or the unit’s iLearn website. All required and recommended readings are listed in the complete unit outline available through the ECED886 iLearn website.

Unit website

There is a website for this unit. Access to this unit is available online through iLearn, at ilearn.mq.edu.au . You will need to login using your Macquarie ID.

Unit Schedule

Please note that this schedule is a guide only. For complete details please see the full unit outline available through the ECED886 iLearn website, where information about required readings and additional resources, tutorial and on-campus session participation requirements and assignment due dates is also provided.

Graduate Capabilities

PG - Discipline Knowledge and Skills

Our postgraduates will be able to demonstrate a significantly enhanced depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content knowledge in their chosen fields.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

• Use a metalanguage for discussing how images construct meanings and operate in different social and cultural contexts
• Develop a metalanguage for discussing how images interact with language and other modes of communication
• Evaluate how multimodal texts and environments for children support learning and literacy development
• Develop a strong understanding of how to promote the development of critical visual and multimodal literacy in children from diverse linguistic and cultural backgrounds through multimodal texts and environments
• Demonstrate an understanding of recent research literature on visual communication, multimodality and multimodal learning and literacy
• Reflect on one's own visual and critical multimodal literacy, and draw on these reflections to improve one's academic and professional communication skills

Assessment tasks

• Assignment 1
• Assignment 2
• Assignment 3

PG - Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

Our postgraduates will be capable of utilising and reflecting on prior knowledge and experience, of applying higher level critical thinking skills, and of integrating and synthesising learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments. A characteristic of this form of thinking is the generation of new, professionally oriented knowledge through personal or group-based critique of practice and theory.
