Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

- Assemble a coherent body of documents/artefacts in a relevant ancient language.
- Acquire greater competence in one ancient language.
- Investigate the documents/artefacts in relation to relevant historical context at an advanced level.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Due
Assembly & Bibliography	30%	Friday 21st August, 2015
Project outline	10%	Friday 21st August, 2015
Documentary Project	60%	6th November, 2015

Assembly & Bibliography

Due: Friday 21st August, 2015

Weighting: 30%

For this task students are expected to assemble a body of documents/artefacts (ca. 4-5) which relate to a specific historical era or historical problem. This needs to be approved in advance by your supervisor. Provide a brief statement for each item outlining the reasons for its inclusion, including a bibliography of relevant ancient and modern sources. Give a critical evaluation of two major modern discussions.

Examples of documents/artefacts:Coins, papyri, inscriptions, pottery, literary extracts, etc.

The criteria for the assessment of this assignment include quality of selection criteria and relevance to the chosen historical era/problem. For the bibliography completeness of relevant ancient sources and a satisfactory representation of major issues in modern scholarship will be considered.

Word limit up to 2,000 words

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Assemble a coherent body of documents/artefacts in a relevant ancient language.

Project outline

Due: Friday 21st August, 2015

Weighting: 10%

Please format this as if it were a research grant application.

- title: 20 words maximum

- brief outline: 100 words maximum, intelligible to non-specialist

- statement on significance of the topic: 100 words minimum to 200 words maximum, outlining what this topic contributes to understanding the broader field, and why it needs to be researched

- method: 100 words minimum to 200 words maximum, outlining how the research will be undertaken, what sort of sources will be used, what sort of information they might yield, what approaches to the sources will be used, what sorts of research tools (concordances, searchable data-bases, specialist dictionaries, etc.) will be used.

The criteria for the assessment of this assignment include identification of major issues in modern scholarship in relation to the study of these documents to the satisfaction of the supervisor, as well as the comprehensiveness and range of your outline.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Assemble a coherent body of documents/artefacts in a relevant ancient language.
- Acquire greater competence in one ancient language.
- Investigate the documents/artefacts in relation to relevant historical context at an advanced level.

Documentary Project

Due: 6th November, 2015

Weighting: 60%

For this assignment students are required to submit a project of no more than 5000 words including:

- an introduction setting out the aims and historical significance of the project;
- a catalogue of your chosen documents/artefacts;
- your own translation of the chosen documents/artefacts;
- editorial information for each document/artefact;
- and a concluding systematic discussion of points of interest contributed by the chosen documents/artefacts to the general historical significance.

The criteria for the assessment of this project include accuracy of presentation and translation together with editorial comment, completeness of relevant bibliography and arguments advanced to support your conclusion as to the historical significance.

60% Assignment 6th November, 2015

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire greater competence in one ancient language.
- Investigate the documents/artefacts in relation to relevant historical context at an advanced level.
