<td>Unit description</td>
<td>This unit examines the regulation of sex under the rubric of &quot;pleasure and danger&quot; to determine the fundamental principles informing law in this most intimate of areas. With a focus on the values of agency, capacity and autonomy, students will critically examine contemporary examples of legal regulation concerning consent, including cases of sexual assault, disease transmission, regulation of the internet and &quot;underage sexting&quot;, and contemporary debates about migration and &quot;sexual slavery&quot;. Students will be introduced to critical theories by which to assess relevant contemporary cases, legislation and other legal initiatives regulating sexual pleasure and danger in Australia and internationally.</td>

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

- Understand critical feminist theoretical approaches to the study of law.
- Understand the different ways in which sexual behaviours and intimacy are regulated by the criminal law in a variety of jurisdictions.
- Identify the advantages and disadvantages of the contemporary regulation of sexual behaviours and intimacy in various jurisdictions.
- Analyse the moral and political values that inform the historical and contemporary regulation of sexual behaviours and intimacy.
Critically assess the way in which different jurisdictions balance the moral and political values informing the regulation of sexual behaviour and intimacy in selected cases.

Conduct comprehensive critical research and communicate your understanding of the subject verbally and in clearly written, well reasoned and well structured arguments.

General Assessment Information

Details of the assessment tasks and due dates are provided on Ilearn. All assessments are to be submitted electronically via Turnitin.

Macquarie Law School policy on assessment

In the absence of a successful application for "disruption to studies", any assessment task submitted after its deadline will not be graded and will receive a mark of zero.

Word limits will be strictly applied and work above the word limit will not be marked. Footnotes are only to be used for referencing. Substantive material in footnotes will not be marked.

All assessments in the unit are to be submitted electronically. Plagiarism detection software is used in this unit and the University’s Academic Honestly Policy is strictly applied.

Tutorial Participation

Due: continuous

Weighting: 0%

Tutorial Participation

Participation is Pass/Fail. You must pass this aspect of the course in order to pass the Unit.

Tutorials in this unit only work if all students attend and give the entire group the benefit of their views based upon the readings and their experience.

Specific readings and exercises will be set for each tutorial. The tutorial program is set out on iLearn in a weekly format.

You must attend all tutorials. You are required to participate in the tutorial discussions, debates and any other activities. Tutors will engage in ongoing assessment of student participation using the following criteria:

1. Preparation and understanding of material: the student has listened to the lecture, read the required reading and has attempted to link the materials to the lectures, to other course materials, to their own knowledge and to current affairs.

2. Ability to think critically about the material: the student is able to think critically about the materials from different angles and is able to question the materials.

3. Clear expression of ideas: the student is able to clearly express their ideas about the materials.

4. Engaging with other students: the student engages with others in the class taking an active role in discussions debates and other activities assigned by the tutor. The student responds to others in the class by listening to them, providing constructive feedback and asking questions.

5. Demonstration of skills: The student is able to demonstrate communication skills including listening skills.

From time to time, tutors will collect examples of student work completed in tutorials. Tutors may set impromptu quizzes in class to assess a student's knowledge of the tutorial preparation material.

If you cannot attend a tutorial you must email your tutor to inform them of your absence. Repeated absences from tutorials must meet the criteria for Disruption to Studies and be approved by the Unit Convenor. Applications for Disruption to Studies are made online at ask.mq.edu.au

Tutors will raise any concerns about poor participation with the student involved. Students may be given an opportunity to submit remedial work where there are concerns about participation or unexplained absences.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand critical feminist theoretical approaches to the study of law.
- Understand the different ways in which sexual behaviours and intimacy are regulated by the criminal law in a variety of jurisdictions.
- Identify the advantages and disadvantages of the contemporary regulation of sexual behaviours and intimacy in various jurisdictions.
- Analyse the moral and political values that inform the historical and contemporary regulation of sexual behaviours and intimacy.
- Critically assess the way in which different jurisdictions balance the moral and political values informing the regulation of sexual behaviour and intimacy in selected cases.
- Conduct comprehensive critical research and communicate your understanding of the subject verbally and in clearly written, well reasoned and well structured arguments.
Court judgment

Due: Week 9
Weighting: 40%

Students will select one court case from those provided by the convenor and write an alternative judgment, in keeping with the key themes of the unit: autonomy, agency and capacity.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand critical feminist theoretical approaches to the study of law.
- Understand the different ways in which sexual behaviours and intimacy are regulated by the criminal law in a variety of jurisdictions
- Identify the advantages and disadvantages of the contemporary regulation of sexual behaviours and intimacy in various jurisdictions
- Analyse the moral and political values that inform the historical and contemporary regulation of sexual behaviours and intimacy
- Conduct comprehensive critical research and communicate your understanding of the subject verbally and in clearly written, well reasoned and well structured arguments.

Major research essay

Due: Week 13
Weighting: 60%

Students will prepare a major research report examining one of the weekly case studies of the unit, focusing on the themes of autonomy, agency and capacity.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand critical feminist theoretical approaches to the study of law.
- Understand the different ways in which sexual behaviours and intimacy are regulated by the criminal law in a variety of jurisdictions
- Identify the advantages and disadvantages of the contemporary regulation of sexual behaviours and intimacy in various jurisdictions
- Analyse the moral and political values that inform the historical and contemporary regulation of sexual behaviours and intimacy
- Critically assess the way in which different jurisdictions balance the moral and political values informing the regulation of sexual behaviour and intimacy in selected cases.
- Conduct comprehensive critical research and communicate your understanding of the subject verbally and in clearly written, well reasoned and well structured arguments.
Delivery and Resources

This unit requires students to attend or audit online (through Echo360) a weekly 2 hour lecture and attend a weekly 1 hour tutorial.

In addition, students are required to access the unit’s iLearn page to review online content including assigned readings (available through e-reserve linked through iLearn).

Student workload, in accordance with university guidelines, is 3 hours per credit point per week (over a 15 week term), and can be estimated as follows:

- 24 hours - attendance of lectures and tutorials
- 56 hours - readings, review of online content and self-study
- 55 hours - assessment tasks

135 hours total

Students will also be required to use a computer to interact with online research databases and web-based research tools.
