Graduate Capabilities

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills
Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Contrast different theoretical approaches to equality and non-discrimination
- Describe and critique the existing institutional arrangements for pursuing discrimination complaints and ability to critique those arrangements

Assessment tasks
- Class participation
- Take home exam

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking
We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes
- Analyse and critique the role of law in addressing inequality and discrimination
- Describe and critique the existing institutional arrangements for pursuing discrimination complaints and ability to critique those arrangements
- Locate and analyse primary and secondary materials in the area of equality and discrimination
- Critique current reform options

Assessment tasks
- Class participation
- Research paper
- Take home exam

Problem Solving and Research Capability
Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes
- Analyse and critique the role of law in addressing inequality and discrimination
- Contrast different theoretical approaches to equality and non-discrimination
- Explain what is unlawful discrimination and how a complaint might be made within the current regulatory framework
• Locate and analyse primary and secondary materials in the area of equality and discrimination
• Critique current reform options

Assessment tasks

• Research paper
• Take home exam

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

• Explain what is unlawful discrimination and how a complaint might be made within the current regulatory framework
• Critique current reform options

Assessment task

• Class participation

Socially and Environmentally Active and Responsible

We want our graduates to be aware of and have respect for self and others; to be able to work with others as a leader and a team player; to have a sense of connectedness with others and country; and to have a sense of mutual obligation. Our graduates should be informed and active participants in moving society towards sustainability.
