Unit description
This unit is suited to students who wish to develop skills and confidence with their writing of narrative, either in the short story or novel genre. In addition to weekly writing tasks, students will write two to three short stories or two thematically linked novel chapters. The unit is taught through a combination of lectures; readings in narrative studies and examples of short fiction; and workshops of student writing. Narrative studies topics include focalisation, management of time, scene structures, speech and dialogue. Assessment takes into account each student's creative work, weekly writing exercises, discussion and analysis of the readings, weekly attendance and participation, and the student's workshop and discussion skills. Assessment is ongoing throughout the semester.

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://students.mq.edu.au/important-dates

Learning Outcomes

1. Development of creative narrative writing practices through the completion of writing exercises and major creative work.

2. Understanding of the limits and possibilities of a range of contemporary forms of creative narrative writing including long and short short stories, realist, metafictional, speculative and the Bildungsroman narrative.

3. Ability to critique and analyse narratives using a technical vocabulary drawn from contemporary narrative studies and literary theory.

4. Development of self-reflective, critical and editing skills in relation to narrative writing, and employment of a technical vocabulary and narrative studies concepts in editing and analysis.

5. Skills in both analysing and discussing the creative work of others in various contexts, including workshop.

Participation

Due: Weekly, Weeks 1-12

Weighting: 10%

- It is an assessment requirement of this unit that students participate weekly. Without participation, the Learning Outcomes of the unit cannot be achieved.
- Missed weeks must be explained in a timely way with a medical certificate relating to urgent or unavoidable circumstances; or in the case of employment demands, a letter from a registered employer. Non-urgent medical appointments must not be scheduled during class times.
- Marks are deducted from the Participation mark for undocumented absences.
- Students whose participation is unsatisfactory for more than 2 weeks for urgent medical reasons, and who are not registered with Campus Wellbeing for an ongoing disability, may apply to the University for Withdrawal without Penalty from the unit.

Students who do not satisfactorily participate on a weekly basis, without the valid documentation, will receive a Fail grade.

Participation involves:
• Class or online discussion; listening to the lectures and reading the set texts and evidencing your engagement through discussion and posts that refer clearly to the set texts, themes and topics;
• Maintaining a regular creative writing practice, evidenced through your workshop submissions;
• Reading and commenting on other students’ creative work in the workshops, employing concepts and vocabularies discussed in the topics, readings and lectures;
• Diligently adhering to schedules in relation to workshopping, logging-in and general timeliness;
• Submission of an Individual Presentation and contribution to the On Campus Day or Alternative Activities task.

The Individual Presentation (IP) is a short informal discussion.

Assessment is based on the quality and relevancy of participation. Weekly Participation is required in order to Pass this unit.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
• Understanding of the limits and possibilities of a range of contemporary forms of creative narrative writing including long and short short stories, realist, metafictional, speculative and the Bildungsroman narrative.
• Ability to critique and analyse narratives using a technical vocabulary drawn from contemporary narrative studies and literary theory.
• Development of self-reflective, critical and editing skills in relation to narrative writing, and employment of a technical vocabulary and narrative studies concepts in editing and analysis.
• Skills in both analysing and discussing the creative work of others in various contexts, including workshop.

Graduate Capabilities

Socially and Environmentally Active and Responsible
We want our graduates to be aware of and have respect for self and others; to be able to work with others as a leader and a team player; to have a sense of connectedness with others and country; and to have a sense of mutual obligation. Our graduates should be informed and active participants in moving society towards sustainability.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome
• Skills in both analysing and discussing the creative work of others in various contexts, including workshop.

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking
We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes
• Understanding of the limits and possibilities of a range of contemporary forms of creative narrative writing including long and short short stories, realist, metafictional, speculative and the Bildungsroman narrative.
• Development of self-reflective, critical and editing skills in relation to narrative writing,
Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:
