Unit description
This unit is intended as an introduction to the field of educational psychology. The field of inquiry combines major theories from the disciplines of Psychology and Education, and applies these to the context of teaching and learning. The central focus is on human development. Development and learning are influenced by a large range of factors, such as the cognitive, personal, social (including language), emotional, and physical developments. In addition, social and cultural influences and the education setting play a role in learning.

Graduate Capabilities

Problem Solving and Research Capability
Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- The ability to critically reflect on relevant issues and terminology for pedagogy in teaching and learning
- An understanding of the basic theoretical concepts in the field of educational psychology
- An understanding of some applications of educational psychology in classroom contexts
- The ability to explore educational ideas and issues through research and critical analysis
- Basic academic literacy skills in implementing a sustained and written argument
- Knowledge of a range of appropriate and engaging resources and materials to support students' learning
Assessment tasks
