Unit description
The unit provides an introduction to the theory and practice of social justice advocacy. We will examine campaigning using a combination of legal and other forms of advocacy. The aim is to teach students to think creatively about how to go about achieving social justice outcomes. Learning in the unit will be structured around case studies of social justice litigation, which will be used as a practical basis for exploring effective legal and non-legal strategies. The trial advocacy component covers analysis, strategy and preparation of cases; written submissions; cross-examination of witnesses; and opening and closing addresses. Experienced counsel are also involved.

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:
Recognise the professional and ethical obligations that arise in the context of social justice advocacy
Demonstrate basic trial advocacy skills
Understand how non-legal strategies can complement legal strategies to achieve social justice outcomes
Design a social justice campaign that would bring together litigation and other advocacy strategies

General Assessment Information
In the absence of a successful application for special consideration due to a disruption to studies, any assessment task submitted after its published deadline will not be graded and will receive a mark of zero. Applications for a Disruption to Studies are made electronically via ask.mq.edu.au and should be accompanied by supporting documentation. Students should refer to the Disruption to Studies policy for complete details of the policy and a description of the supporting documentation required.

Word limits will be strictly applied and work above the word limit will not be marked.

All assessments in the unit are to be submitted electronically. Plagiarism detection software is used in this unit.

Quiz
Due: 7/4/2017
Weighting: 10%

An online quiz consisting of 10 questions drawn from the course readings to be completed the day before the on campus session begins.

On successful completion you will be able to:

• Recognise the professional and ethical obligations that arise in the context of social justice advocacy
• Demonstrate basic trial advocacy skills
• Understand how non-legal strategies can complement legal strategies to achieve social justice outcomes
• Design a social justice campaign that would bring together litigation and other advocacy strategies

Seminar Participation
Due: On Campus Session
Weighting: 10%

Seminar participation in the two day on-campus session

On successful completion you will be able to:
• Recognise the professional and ethical obligations that arise in the context of social justice advocacy
• Understand how non-legal strategies can complement legal strategies to achieve social justice outcomes
• Design a social justice campaign that would bring together litigation and other advocacy strategies

Trial Advocacy Skills
Due: 6/5/2017
Weighting: 30%

15 minute oral examination during which students will be called upon to demonstrate the trial advocacy skills covered in the unit. The assessment will take place on Saturday 6 May, from 10am-3pm.

On successful completion you will be able to:
• Demonstrate basic trial advocacy skills

Social Justice Campaign Plan
Due: 26/5/2017
Weighting: 50%

Students will work in groups to develop a 2500 word report outlining a strategy for a campaign on a selected social justice issue. The report will consist of a 1000 word legal submission to a coronial inquest, as well as 1500 word plan for non-legal advocacy strategies.

As part of the assessment, students will also each submit a 1000 word Individual Report documenting their contribution to their group’s report and reflecting on the learning in the unit.

Both the group report and the individual report are due on the same day.

The 2500 word group report is worth 10% of your final mark. It will be marked on a pass/fail basis.

The individual report is weighted at 40% of your final mark. The quality of the group report will contribute to your grade for your individual report.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Recognise the professional and ethical obligations that arise in the context of social justice advocacy
- Understand how non-legal strategies can complement legal strategies to achieve social justice outcomes
- Design a social justice campaign that would bring together litigation and other advocacy strategies

Delivery and Resources

The unit provides an introduction to the theory and practice of social justice advocacy. We will examine campaigning using a combination of legal and other forms of advocacy. The aim is to teach students how to think creatively about how legal and broader advocacy strategies can be used to achieve social justice outcomes.

Learning in the unit will be structured around case studies of social justice litigation which will be used as a practical basis for exploring effective legal and non-legal strategies.

The prescribed text for the unit is George Hampel, Elizabeth Brimer, Randal Kune, Advocacy Manual (2016). The publisher has delivered 30 copies of the book to my office. They are available at the discounted price of $140. You can pay for the book online (http://www.advocacy.com.au/PublicationFormUni.htm). Make sure you put ‘Macquarie’ in the box marked ‘University’. You will then be sent a receipt via email which you can present to me to collect your book. The benefit of this approach is that you save on shipping. Alternatively, you can have it delivered to your door for an extra $15.

The unit materials will be delivered online through the unit’s ilearn page. They will consist of links to readings, videos and pre-recorded lectures organised under a weekly structure. Students are expected to have completed all of these readings and watched all videos and recorded lectures prior to the seminars.

We will meet for two days of seminars to be held on Saturday 8 April and Sunday 9 April. We will reconvene on Saturday 6 May to carry out trial advocacy assessment task.
