Unit description

Beginning with the First World War, this unit offers a political, social, cultural and economic overview of Europe's relations with the wider world. It traces the obsession with race and empire in Britain, France, Germany and Italy, and considers the post-colonial view that the twentieth century European civil wars were a result of European practices of colonialism turned inward. Was Europe indeed the 'dark continent' suggested by historian Mark Mazower? The crisis of European liberalism in the face of the Great Depression, Russian communism, the Spanish Civil War, fascism and Nazism, two world wars and the Holocaust support such a view, but the second half the century presents a more complicated picture. We look at the Cold War; the Americanisation of Europe and the fall of communism; the effects of decolonisation and post-colonial immigration on European societies; the breakdown of the postwar consensus and the rise of Islamist terrorism in the late twentieth century Europe.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate an understanding of European history in the twentieth century.

Demonstrate an understanding of a variety of conceptual and historiographical approaches to interpreting twentieth-century European history.

Sensitively contribute to contemporary debates about Europe and the world with an informed and critical understanding of the relationship between past and present.

Identify and interpret a wide variety of secondary and primary materials.

Examine historical issues by undertaking research according to the methodological and ethical conventions of the discipline.

Analyse historical evidence, scholarship and changing representations of the past.

Construct an evidence-based argument or narrative in audio, digital, oral, visual, or written form.

Identify and reflect critically on the knowledge and skills developed in their study of history.

General Assessment Information

Assignment submission

Double-spaced type and pages with wide margins (for comments) are preferred. Footnotes and bibliography are mandatory.

All assignments (except for the exam) must be submitted as Word documents via Turnitin on the MHIS321 iLearn site:

1. Log in to your iLearn account and go to your home page. Turnitin assignments should be visible under MHIS321: Twentieth Century Europe.
2. If not, log in to MHIS321 and click on the heading 'Assessment Tasks'. Scroll down until you reach the subheading 'Assignment details and submission via Turnitin' and click on the required assignment title.
3. Click on the Tab 'My Submissions'.
4. Type the title of your assignment in the box 'Submission Title'.
5. To upload your Word document, click on 'Browse' next to the 'File to Submit' box. Find and select your document from your computer, check the box for copyright, then click on the 'Add submission' button.

Detailed instructions on how to use Turnitin with can be found at:

http://www.mq.edu.au/iLearn/student_info/assignments.htm#submit_turnitin

Feedback will be provided via Grademark. Go to the following URL for instructions on how to view your feedback:

http://www.mq.edu.au/iLearn/student_info/assignments.htm#results

Extensions and penalties

If you anticipate any difficulty in meeting essay or exam deadlines, please contact me as early as possible. I want you to submit your best work and understand that students have to balance their academic work with other life events. If you get in touch with me ahead of time, it is likely that an extension will be granted. Otherwise, the penalty rate is 2% per day with a maximum penalty of 20%.

Assignments handed in early will not be marked and returned before the due date.

Always keep a copy of your assessment tasks in case they get lost in the system.

Returning assignments

Assignments will be returned online via the MHIS321 iLearn site. For more information on how to view your marked assignments, see: http://www.mq.edu.au/iLearn/student_info/assignments.htm#results

Assignments will be marked and returned within two weeks of receipt.

Other information

Disruption to Studies

No work will be accepted for marking after the final paper deadline unless you have submitted a request for Disruption to Studies with adequate and appropriate supporting evidence.

Please note that requests for disruption to studies are not granted automatically, and are reserved for unforeseen and serious circumstances such as prolonged illness, hospitalisation or bereavement in your immediate family. If you believe that you qualify for special consideration, please contact Dr Teo as soon as possible.

Attendance

Attendance at seminars is compulsory. Failure to meet these requirements may result in failure of the unit. All students are expected to make adequate preparation for each seminar, which includes completing the recommended readings before their tutorial. Attendance and participation in seminar discussions are worth 20% of the total mark for this unit. Failure to attend or participate in at least 70% of the seminars will result in a Fail grade for the entire course. Failure to complete a report for at least 70% of the weekly readings will result in a Fail grade for the entire course.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
External Participation	20%	No	Weekly
Research proposal	5%	No	Week 2
Secondary Source Analysis #1	10%	No	Week 3
Annotated Bibliography	10%	No	Week 5
Secondary Source Analysis # 2	10%	No	Week 8
Secondary Source Analysis #3	10%	No	Week 10
Research essay	35%	No	TBD

External Participation

Due: Weekly

Weighting: 20%

Pass rate: students must complete at least 70% of reading reports to pass this course.

Students are expected to respond to the readings on iLearn twice per week. In their first response, student should write approximately 200-300 words and explain:

1. What is the reading about?
2. What is the argument presented about this topic? (i.e. How does the historian explain the cause, effects or consequences, or significance of the topic? What evidence and reasoning support this argument?)
3. Propose two questions for class consideration.

In their second response, students should write 200-300 words in response to questions posed by their classmates.

Reports on the readings will be checked weekly by me or your group leader for that week.

The aim of this task is to ensure that students have done the weekly readings and come to seminars adequately prepared to participate in class discussions. It will also enable me to check that students have understood the readings and the topics.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate an understanding of European history in the twentieth century.
- Demonstrate an understanding of a variety of conceptual and historiographical approaches to interpreting twentieth-century European history.

- Sensitively contribute to contemporary debates about Europe and the world with an informed and critical understanding of the relationship between past and present.
- Identify and interpret a wide variety of secondary and primary materials.
- Examine historical issues by undertaking research according to the methodological and ethical conventions of the discipline.
- Analyse historical evidence, scholarship and changing representations of the past.
- Identify and reflect critically on the knowledge and skills developed in their study of history.

Research proposal

Due: Week 2

Weighting: 5%

This constitutes Part 1 of the Research Project

Word length: approximately 500 words, excluding bibliography

See MHIS321 iLearn site for marking rubrics.

Historiography

Design a research essay question focusing on an historiographical controversy on any topic in 20th century European history.

Some example include:

- Whether Germany was to blame for the First World War
- Whether a 'gender war' broke out before, during, or after the First World War
- The origins of European empires in Asia and Africa
- Whether Europeans were receptive to Americanization
- The rise of antisemitism in 20th Century Europe
- Causes of the Russian Revolution
- The extent of the Stalinist 'Great Terror'
- The debate over resistance and collaboration in Vichy France
- The causes of the 'Final Solution', including: intentionalism, functionalism, eliminationist anti-Semitism,
- Whether the Holocaust is unique or similar to other genocides
- The origins of the 68 protests in Paris and Prague

- The position of racial minorities in postwar Europe
- Who was most responsible for starting the Cold War
- Why communism fell in Eastern Europe and/or Russia
- Whether Islamist terrorism is unique in Europe

NB Historiographies are generally difficult because they require you to read a lot of history, identify who are the main historians or what are the main issues of debate in this controversy, and then identify and understand different historians' varying arguments about the subject.

Submit a research project proposal including the following information:

1. The essay question you have designed. This must be a specific question, not a vague topic.
2. One page (double spaced with adequate margins for marking) providing short answers to the following questions:
 - What is my topic about?
 - Who are the some important historians in this field?
 - What questions or issues of historical interpretation will you focus on?
 - What other kinds of sources in addition to the historiographical works can help you understand the historical background/context of this topic?
 - Are there other themes or issues I need to understand in order to explore this topic properly? E.g. do I need to find out more about changing gender roles? How propaganda works?
3. A self-assessment sheet for this project, found under the Turnitin assignment link on the iLearn website.

This is a historiographical task which assesses whether students have understood the history of the topic; shown good judgement in the kinds of historical sources required for 300-level university history essay; and understood how and why different historians have different approaches to or interpretations of historical events.

FAQ: Will I have to write my research essay based exactly on my research proposal?

Answer: If your interest has changed by the time you start work on your research essay and you want to write about a different topic, you may do so. HOWEVER, be aware that you may be disadvantaging yourself in comparison to other students since you will not have the feedback provided after the project proposal. If you need help, get in contact with me!

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate an understanding of European history in the twentieth century.
- Demonstrate an understanding of a variety of conceptual and historiographical approaches to interpreting twentieth-century European history.
- Identify and interpret a wide variety of secondary and primary materials.
- Examine historical issues by undertaking research according to the methodological and ethical conventions of the discipline.
- Analyse historical evidence, scholarship and changing representations of the past.
- Construct an evidence-based argument or narrative in audio, digital, oral, visual, or written form.

Secondary Source Analysis #1

Due: Week 3

Weighting: 10%

In their Secondary Source Analysis (750 words), students must examine either Judith Walkowitz, City of Dreadful Delight: Narratives of Sexual Danger in Late-Victorian London, pg 191-228; Vanessa Schwartz, Spectacular Realities: Early Mass Culture in Fin-de-siècle Paris, pg 45-88; OR Carl Schorske, Fin-de-siècle Vienna: Politics and Culture, pg 181-207.

Students should briefly summarize the text, explain its major arguments, analyze the strength of its claims and their implications, and create an argument for how you would better address the same issue.

The goal of this assignment is to develop students' ability to evaluate a given piece of historical scholarship.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate an understanding of European history in the twentieth century.
- Demonstrate an understanding of a variety of conceptual and historiographical approaches to interpreting twentieth-century European history.
- Identify and interpret a wide variety of secondary and primary materials.

Annotated Bibliography

Due: Week 5

Weighting: 10%

This constitutes Part 2 of the Research Project.

In the Annotated Bibliography, students will generate a bibliography of at least five secondary sources that supports their research project. The goal of this assignment is to develop students' ability to conduct research and analyze source material. Students should list these titles and also include a descriptive paragraph for each that appraises the source. Each annotation should address the theme of the work, the authority of the author, and comment on the audience.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate an understanding of European history in the twentieth century.
- Demonstrate an understanding of a variety of conceptual and historiographical approaches to interpreting twentieth-century European history.
- Identify and interpret a wide variety of secondary and primary materials.
- Examine historical issues by undertaking research according to the methodological and ethical conventions of the discipline.
- Construct an evidence-based argument or narrative in audio, digital, oral, visual, or written form.

Secondary Source Analysis # 2

Due: Week 8

Weighting: 10%

In the Secondary Source Analysis (750 words), students must examine Christopher Browning, Ordinary Men: Reserve Police Battalion 101 and the Final Solution in Poland, pg 159-189; AND Daniel Goldhagen, Hitler's Willing Executioners, pg 239-262.

Students should briefly summarize the two texts, explain their major arguments, analyze the strength of their claims and their implications, and create an argument for how you understand these two texts in conversation. Comparing and contrasting the two sources might be productive.

The goal of this assignment is to develop students' ability to evaluate a given piece of historical scholarship in conversation with another contradictory source.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate an understanding of European history in the twentieth century.
- Demonstrate an understanding of a variety of conceptual and historiographical approaches to interpreting twentieth-century European history.
- Identify and interpret a wide variety of secondary and primary materials.
- Examine historical issues by undertaking research according to the methodological and ethical conventions of the discipline.

Secondary Source Analysis #3

Due: Week 10

Weighting: 10%

In their final Secondary Source Analysis (750 words), students must examine a monograph of their choosing. Ideally this monograph should be related to their final paper topic.

Students should briefly summarize the text, explain its major arguments, analyze the strength of its claims and their implications, and create an argument for this text will fit within your larger historiographic paper.

The goal of this assignment is to develop students' ability to evaluate a given piece of historical scholarship as a scaffold to the final paper.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate an understanding of European history in the twentieth century.
- Demonstrate an understanding of a variety of conceptual and historiographical approaches to interpreting twentieth-century European history.
- Sensitively contribute to contemporary debates about Europe and the world with an informed and critical understanding of the relationship between past and present.
- Identify and interpret a wide variety of secondary and primary materials.
- Construct an evidence-based argument or narrative in audio, digital, oral, visual, or written form.

Research essay

Due: TBD

Weighting: 35%

Word length: 3000 words max.

Essay question: self-designed from Assignment 1 - your research project proposal. See MHIS321 iLearn site for marking rubrics.

The aim of this task is to assess your research, analytical and synthesis skills as well as your understanding and interpretation of the historiography of one particular topic. It also assesses your ability to organize and communicate this information effectively in the form of a formal, grammatically-correct, jargon-free, properly-referenced history essay.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate an understanding of European history in the twentieth century.

- Demonstrate an understanding of a variety of conceptual and historiographical approaches to interpreting twentieth-century European history.
- Identify and interpret a wide variety of secondary and primary materials.
- Examine historical issues by undertaking research according to the methodological and ethical conventions of the discipline.
- Analyse historical evidence, scholarship and changing representations of the past.
- Construct an evidence-based argument or narrative in audio, digital, oral, visual, or written form.
- Identify and reflect critically on the knowledge and skills developed in their study of history.

Delivery and Resources

Technology:

iLearn: The MHIS321 website is accessed by logging in via <https://ilearn.mq.edu.au/login/MQ/>

Lecture and seminar times

Recordings of lectures will be uploaded to the MHIS321 iLearn site. Lecture notes can be accessed under the subheading 'Lecture materials' for each week. Students are expected to listen to the relevant lectures and respond to the readings on iLearn before attending seminars.

Lecture times and locations

Internal day classes: students must attend ONE two-hour seminar at any of the following times.

Activity	Day	Time	Room
Seminar 1	Monday	10am-12pm	C5A 229
Seminar 2	Tuesday	9-11am	W5A 205

For current updates, lecture times and classrooms please consult the MQ Timetables website: http://students.mq.edu.au/student_admin/timetables

Required and recommended resources

All seminar readings have been uploaded as pdfs onto the MHIS321 website under each week's seminar topic. No unit reader will be provided because of the new Faculty of Arts policy.

The library's E-reserve (course code: MHIS321) holds many useful articles which will assist in the preparation of your essays. Most of the journal articles listed in this unit outline are available via the 'Journal Finder' link on the library's main catalogue page: <http://www.lib.mq.edu.au/>

Unit Schedule

SCHEDULE

Lectures related to seminar topics are pre-recorded and available online. Students should listen to related lectures before attending seminars as there may be lecture-related quizzes at the start of each seminar.

Graduate Capabilities

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate an understanding of a variety of conceptual and historiographical approaches to interpreting twentieth-century European history.
- Sensitively contribute to contemporary debates about Europe and the world with an informed and critical understanding of the relationship between past and present.
- Identify and interpret a wide variety of secondary and primary materials.
- Examine historical issues by undertaking research according to the methodological and ethical conventions of the discipline.
- Analyse historical evidence, scholarship and changing representations of the past.
- Construct an evidence-based argument or narrative in audio, digital, oral, visual, or written form.
- Identify and reflect critically on the knowledge and skills developed in their study of history.

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate an understanding of European history in the twentieth century.

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

Socially and Environmentally Active and Responsible

We want our graduates to be aware of and have respect for self and others; to be able to work with others as a leader and a team player; to have a sense of connectedness with others and country; and to have a sense of mutual obligation. Our graduates should be informed and active participants in moving society towards sustainability.
