Unit description
This unit prepares students for professional practice as translators and/or interpreters. Students will be required to complete the fieldwork components (Practicum) required for NAATI Accreditation in the context of this unit. In addition to the fieldwork, the unit will cover a range of knowledge and skills that are essential to working as a freelance practitioner or as part of an in-house team of translators and interpreters. These include a profound understanding of translator and interpreter ethics, business creation and administration, marketing, building good client relationships, and lifelong learning.

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates

Learning Outcomes
On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

- Students should be able to undertake field practice in a professional manner with or without supervision
- Students should be competent to launch their career as a freelance translator/interpreter
- Students should demonstrate effective communication with clients and good client relationship management
- Students should be able to competently apply the AUSIT Code of Ethics
Students should be able to demonstrate competent management of translation and interpreting tasks in a teamwork environment

General Assessment Information

To reflect the flexibility of the unit to be a practical-oriented one, the students are allowed to extend their completion of all the tasks beyond the current semester, if they are working on more than one specialty and/or if special circumstances arise, so long as they stay with the T&I Program. However, the students doing so will not get a final result until all the requirements are met.

This is a hurdle assessment task (see assessment policy for more information on hurdle assessment tasks)

The students are required to submit a portfolio by the end of Week 13, enclosing all the activities they have done for the unit, including log sheets for interpreting placements and court observations, journals of the activities (seminars, placements, translation projects, observations, etc.), supervisors’ reports and evaluation forms of the translation projects, feedback forms of interpreting placements, and so on.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Students should be able to undertake field practice in a professional manner with or without supervision
- Students should be competent to launch their career as a freelance translator/interpreter
- Students should demonstrate effective communication with clients and good client relationship management
- Students should be able to competently apply the AUSIT Code of Ethics
- Students should be able to demonstrate competent management of translation and interpreting tasks in a teamwork environment

Delivery and Resources

The main on-campus delivery method of the unit is seminars by guest lectures to cover different topics of working as a professional translator and/or interpreter. Other than attending the seminar, the T&I Program is also liaising with the community to secure interpreting placement opportunities and translation projects for the students to practise in the real mode, with the final products supervised by qualified interpreters and/or translators. Students will also be required to act as practising interpreters/translators for various clients sourced by the program or by themselves (pre-approval of the program is needed before the actual work is carried out).

Policies and Procedures

Macquarie University policies and procedures are accessible from Policy Central. Students should be aware of the following policies in particular with regard to Learning and Teaching:
