Unit description
While most history units look in detail at a particular country, theme or period, this unit surveys history on the biggest possible scale. It begins with the origins of the Universe and goes on to tell a series of linked stories about the origins of the stars and planets; the earth and its inhabitants; human beings; various types of human societies; and global interactions to the present day. Students in the unit explore the changing interactions between people, and between people and the environment. In so doing, they are encouraged to think about the kinds of evidence available to historians and the role that history can play in understanding the local and global communities that people belong to today. Finally, the unit invites students to think about what they regard as the central themes of world histories and big history. No prior knowledge of science or history is required. All enrolment queries should be directed to Open Universities Australia (OUA): see www.open.edu.au

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://www.open.edu.au/student-admin-and-support/key-dates/

Essay 1
Due: Midnight, Sunday Week 6
Weighting: 20%

In this assessment you are required to write an analytical and argumentative paper of 1200 words on one (1) of seven possible topics. You will need to base your paper on specific evidence drawn from lectures, tutorial discussions, and the readings. You should undertake some additional reading and research beyond the required reading for the Tutorial Topic that relates to the question – the Suggested Additional Readings listed for each Tutorial Topic are a good place to start but these are not exhaustive.

Your essay must be fully referenced, including footnotes and a bibliography – see the referencing guidelines on the unit website for instructions. The footnotes and bibliography are not included in the word count.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:

- Analyse and express your judgement about a range of historical phenomena in written form
- Read literature from different historical disciplines and interpret written and material evidence with appreciation and understanding
- Plan, revise and submit written work according to schedule
- Understand the relationship between human history and the natural sciences
- Draw together and judge pre-selected and self-located evidence to provide an analysis of a major historical phenomenon in big history

Essay 2
Due: Midnight, Sunday Week 10
Weighting: 30%

In this assessment you are required to write an analytical and argumentative paper of 1700 words on one (1) of eleven possible topics. You will need to base your paper on specific evidence drawn from lectures, tutorial discussions, and the readings. You should undertake some additional reading and research beyond the required reading for the Tutorial Topic that relates to the question – the Suggested Additional Readings listed for each Tutorial Topic are a good place to start but these are not exhaustive.

Synoptic essay

Due: Midnight, Sunday Week 13

Weighting: 40%

The final, synoptic essay 2000 words, takes the place of an exam, so it will not be returned with comments. The synoptic essay requires you to attempt an overview of the entire course, because what makes big history distinctive is not the details, but rather the way it can help you see interconnections between many different areas of knowledge. So the synoptic essay will encourage you to develop your ability to see connections between different areas of the course. Everyone will be asked to answer the same question: “What, in your view, was the most important single theme of MHIX115: An Introduction to Big History? Give examples from different parts of the course to support your view.” As you work on the synoptic essay, make sure you touch on several different parts of the course, and also that you are aware of the rubrics that we will use as we mark the essay.

Your essay must be fully referenced, including footnotes and a bibliography – see the referencing guidelines on the unit website for instructions. The footnotes and bibliography are not included in the word count.

Online participation
Due: Weekly
Weighting: 10%

The online discussion task, undertaken through the iLearn site, tests your ability to communicate ideas, your appreciation and comprehension of the themes and concepts discussed in the course, your ability to critically assess and evaluate the arguments of others, and your ability to clearly articulate your thoughts. It is also a task that monitors your progress across the unit topics. You are expected to do the weekly readings, participate in weekly discussions and make postings within the time frame of each discussion topic. These begin on Monday of the discussion week and run through to the following Sunday. You should look to answer at least two of the set questions each week, as well as engaging with the posts of other students. Each individual post should be kept to a maximum of 100 words. A professional and courteous approach towards staff and fellow students is expected at all times.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
• Analyse and express your judgement about a range of historical phenomena in written form
• Read literature from different historical disciplines and interpret written and material evidence with appreciation and understanding
• Understand the relationship between human history and the natural sciences

Delivery and Resources

All other essential readings are provided online. Students may be required to do further research for their essays.

3. Attach supporting documents by clicking 'Add a reply', click 'Browse' and navigating to the files you want to attach, then click 'Submit Form' to send your notification and supporting documents
4. Please keep copies of your original documents, as they may be requested in the future as part of the assessment process

Outcome

Once your submission is assessed, an appropriate outcome will be organised.

OUA Specific Policies and Procedures

Withdrawal from a unit after the census date

You can withdraw from your subjects prior to the census date (last day to withdraw). If you successfully withdraw before the census date, you won’t need to apply for Special Circumstances. If you find yourself unable to withdraw from your subjects before the census date - you might be able to apply for Special Circumstances. If you’re eligible, we can refund your fees and overturn your fail grade.

If you’re studying Single Subjects using FEE-HELP or paying up front, you can apply online.

If you’re studying a degree using HECS-HELP, you’ll need to apply directly to Macquarie University.

Macquarie University policies and procedures are accessible from Policy Central. Students should be aware of the following policies in particular with regard to Learning and Teaching:

Graduate Capabilities

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Analyse and express your judgement about a range of historical phenomena in written form
- Read literature from different historical disciplines and interpret written and material evidence with appreciation and understanding
- Understand the relationship between human history and the natural sciences
- Draw together and judge pre-selected and self-located evidence to provide an analysis of a major historical phenomenon in big history
- Construct a synopsis of big history, highlighting a self-selected theme

Assessment tasks

- Essay 1
- Essay 2
- Synoptic essay

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:
