Unit description
War is a central feature of human history. But why? This unit looks at the ways in which issues of war and peace are shaped by specific cultural and historical conditions that can only be understood in a broader international context. While war is often viewed purely in terms of military strategy, it also always depends on social, economic and cultural contexts for its meaning and practice. This unit explores the changing relationships over time, between understandings, practices and experiences of war. It also examines the practice of peace-making – how have societies and cultures sought to create peace? What might a history of peace-making look like? Our travels will take us from Ancient Greece and Rome through to the ‘war on terror’. In between, we explore the early modern world, colonial empires, South Africa, the United States, Japan, Vietnam, New Zealand and Australia. This unit offers an opportunity to consider the centrality of war to human history (and the social and cultural ramifications of this) as well as providing a solid grounding in the discipline of world history. All enrolment queries should be directed to Open Universities Australia (OUA): see www.open.edu.au

Preliminary Research Exercise

Due: Midnight, Sunday Week 4
Weighting: 15%

This exercise has been designed to 'scaffold' the first steps of your research essay, introduce some key research strategies, and focus your attention on historical interpretation and argument. Your task is twofold: first, follow the research steps outlined below; second, report on your preliminary research findings. If you do not complete all the steps in stage 1, you cannot pass the assessment.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:

- The ability to conduct independent research and evaluate historical writing
- The ability to develop an argument about the past and express this in written form

Research Essay

Due: Midnight, Sunday Week 9
Weighting: 45%

Write a 2000 word essay in response to one of the questions provided and submit your piece to turnitin. Be sure to consult the assessment rubric closely to become familiar with the expectations of a 200 level research essay in modern history - but your first aim should be to offer a piece of historical interpretation rather than narrative/description. Your essay must be... fully referenced according to the format laid out in the Modern History Essay Guide.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:

• An understanding of some of the ways in which war has shaped modern society
• An understanding of some of the different ways in which people/organisations have mobilised for peace
• An understanding of the ways in which war and peace are experienced differently (according to gender, race, class, sexuality and historical location)
• An understanding of the intersections between war, practices of memory and politics
• The ability to conduct independent research and evaluate historical writing
• The ability to develop an argument about the past and express this in written form

Take Home Exam

Due: Midnight, Friday, Week 13
Weighting: 30%

In the non-invigilated take-home exam you will need to answer two questions (1000 words each - essays) from a list of six. These will be based on the content of the course lectures, tutorials and readings. The main purpose of this assessment task is to test your ability to produce brief, clear and logical arguments supported by evidence. For this task, you need not consult any readings beyond those listed as required or recommended. You must consult at least six readings. The exam must be fully documented with footnotes and a bibliography.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:

• An understanding of some of the ways in which war has shaped modern society
• An understanding of some of the different ways in which people/organisations have mobilised for peace
• An understanding of the ways in which war and peace are experienced differently (according to gender, race, class, sexuality and historical location)
• An understanding of the intersections between war, practices of memory and politics
• The ability to develop an argument about the past and express this in written form

Online Participation

Due: Weekly
Weighting: 10%

The online discussion tasks, undertaken through the HST220 unit website, tests your ability to communicate ideas, your appreciation and comprehension of the themes and concepts discussed in the course, your ability to critically assess and evaluate the arguments of others, and your ability to clearly articulate your thoughts. It is also a task that monitors your progress.
across the unit topics. You are expected to do the weekly readings, participate in weekly discussions and make postings within the time frame of each discussion topic. These begin on Monday of the discussion week and run through to the following Sunday. You should look to answer at least two of the set questions each week, as well as engaging with the posts of other students. Each individual post should be kept to a maximum of 100 words. A professional and courteous approach towards staff and fellow students is expected at all times.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:

- An understanding of some of the ways in which war has shaped modern society
- An understanding of some of the different ways in which people/ organisations have mobilised for peace
- An understanding of the ways in which war and peace are experienced differently
  (according to gender, race, class, sexuality and historical location)
- An understanding of the intersections between war, practices of memory and politics
- The ability to actively participation in online group discussions

Delivery and Resources

All delivery is online. All essential readings are provided online. Students may need to conduct further research of their own for their major essay.

Policies and Procedures

Late Submission - applies unless otherwise stated elsewhere in the unit guide

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Extension Request

The University recognises that students may experience events or conditions that adversely affect their academic performance. If you experience serious and unavoidable difficulties at exam time or when assessment tasks are due, you can consider applying for Special Consideration.

You need to show that the circumstances:

1. were serious, unexpected and unavoidable
2. were beyond your control
3. caused substantial disruption to your academic work
4. substantially interfered with your otherwise satisfactory fulfilment of the unit requirements
5. lasted at least three consecutive days or a total of 5 days within the teaching period and prevented completion of an assessment task scheduled for a specific date.

If you feel that your studies have been impacted submit an application as follows:

1. Visit Ask MQ and use your OneID to log in
2. Fill in your relevant details
3. Attach supporting documents by clicking 'Add a reply', click 'Browse' and navigating to the files you want to attach, then click 'Submit Form' to send your notification and supporting documents
4. Please keep copies of your original documents, as they may be requested in the future as part of the assessment process

Outcome

Once your submission is assessed, an appropriate outcome will be organised.

OUA Specific Policies and Procedures

Withdrawal from a unit after the census date

You can withdraw from your subjects prior to the census date (last day to withdraw). If you successfully withdraw before the census date, you won’t need to apply for Special Circumstances. If you find yourself unable to withdraw from your subjects before the census date - you might be able to apply for Special Circumstances. If you’re eligible, we can refund your fees and overturn your fail grade.

If you’re studying Single Subjects using FEE-HELP or paying up front, you can apply online.

If you’re studying a degree using HECS-HELP, you’ll need to apply directly to Macquarie University.

Macquarie University policies and procedures are accessible from Policy Central. Students should be aware of the following policies in particular with regard to Learning and Teaching:

Academic Honesty Policy http://mq.edu.au/policy/docs/academic_honesty/policy.html

In addition, a number of other policies can be found in the Learning and Teaching Category of Policy Central.

Student Code of Conduct

Macquarie University students have a responsibility to be familiar with the Student Code of Conduct: https://students.mq.edu.au/support/student_conduct/
