Corequisites

LAW891

Co-badged status

This unit is co-taught with LAWS588.

Unit description

This unit explores the peaceful resolution of international disputes within the broader principles of international law, particularly the maintenance of international peace and security. It will consider the role and objects of different international actors in dispute settlement. The Unit will also undertake a detailed consideration of the applicable law in international courts and tribunals (such as trade, investment, human rights, and international criminal law). Students will be placed in the position of a lawyer deciding on international litigation options. Having also considered compliance and enforcement of decisions of international courts and tribunals, students will critically evaluate the utility and effectiveness of different dispute resolution mechanisms.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Identify and evaluate the key actors and institutions involved in international dispute settlement and the legal principles governing that activity.

Evaluate and critically analyse the operation of international courts and tribunals and the actions of stakeholders in engaging (or not) with those institutions.

Identify and apply relevant legal principles in international dispute settlement to develop original solutions to current and emerging problems in international law.

Reflect on past and present international developments and critically analyse and interpret such developments within the context of international dispute settlement; consider their relevance to contemporary and future issues in international dispute settlement.

Formulate and communicate original legal arguments having regard to a range of international perspectives.

Appraise the effectiveness of different methods of international dispute settlements in maintaining international peace and security.

General Assessment Information

Late submissions

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests

Moderation

Detailed marking rubrics are available on iLearn. Failed papers will be double marked.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Class participation	10%	No	17 and 18 September 2018
Research Paper	45%	No	5pm, 28 September 2018
Pleadings / legal advice	45%	No	5pm, 11 November 2018

Class participation

Due: 17 and 18 September 2018

Weighting: 10%

Students are required to attend an on-campus session (two days).

It is expected that students will have read all the required readings for each week and will come to classes prepared to discuss the questions for each topic. Class participation marks will be based on the quality of contributions to discussion and, where relevant, the frequency of contributions; evidence of preparation for each topic; and performance in specific tasks set by the tutor (for instance, group work). Attendance alone will not attract any marks.

Students must attend both days.

A failure to meet these requirements will lead to a mark of zero for class participation unless: a) the student submits a successful application for special consideration AND b) submits work in lieu of the on campus session. Note that the on-campus session equates to 12 hours class time. Any work assigned in lieu of the on-campus session is estimated to take at least 12 hours to complete. It will also require a separate appointment with the Convenor to assess participation.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and evaluate the key actors and institutions involved in international dispute settlement and the legal principles governing that activity.
- Evaluate and critically analyse the operation of international courts and tribunals and the actions of stakeholders in engaging (or not) with those institutions.
- Identify and apply relevant legal principles in international dispute settlement to develop original solutions to current and emerging problems in international law.
- Reflect on past and present international developments and critically analyse and interpret such developments within the context of international dispute settlement; consider their relevance to contemporary and future issues in international dispute settlement.
- Formulate and communicate original legal arguments having regard to a range of international perspectives.
- Appraise the effectiveness of different methods of international dispute settlements in maintaining international peace and security.

Research Paper

Due: 5pm, 28 September 2018

Weighting: 45%

Students are required to submit a written research paper. The research paper requires high level independent legal research, critical analytical ability, and coherent legal writing and presentation skill. Students will be required to demonstrate original ideas that have been developed from the course material and a wider survey of the literature.

A list of topics will be posted on the course iLearn page during Week 1 from which you are to select one topic for the research paper.

The submissions for the Research Papers:

- no more than 3,000 words (excluding footnotes). Substantive commentary is not to be included in footnotes. A bibliography is not required
- will be assessed against the rubric posted on iLearn
- must comply with the Australian Guide to Legal Citation (3 ed), available here: <http://mulr.law.unimelb.edu.au/go/AGLC3>
- are to be submitted via Turnitin.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and evaluate the key actors and institutions involved in international dispute settlement and the legal principles governing that activity.
- Evaluate and critically analyse the operation of international courts and tribunals and the actions of stakeholders in engaging (or not) with those institutions.
- Identify and apply relevant legal principles in international dispute settlement to develop original solutions to current and emerging problems in international law.
- Reflect on past and present international developments and critically analyse and interpret such developments within the context of international dispute settlement; consider their relevance to contemporary and future issues in international dispute settlement.
- Formulate and communicate original legal arguments having regard to a range of international perspectives.
- Appraise the effectiveness of different methods of international dispute settlements in maintaining international peace and security.

Pleadings / legal advice

Due: 5pm, 11 November 2018

Weighting: 45%

Students are required to complete a written task comprising two parts: a draft pleading for an international dispute and preparation of a legal advice. Students will be asked to demonstrate their skills in preparing an application in an international dispute and providing legal advice to a client.

The instructions will be released at 9 am Wednesday 7 November and submissions are due 5 pm Sunday 11 November 2018. This is a timed assessment and no late submissions will be accepted.

The pleadings and legal advice:

- must be no more than 2,500 words (excluding footnotes)
- will be assessed against the rubric posted on iLearn

- must comply with the Australian Guide to Legal Citation (3 ed), available here: <http://mulr.law.unimelb.edu.au/go/AGLC3>
- are to be submitted via Turnitin.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and evaluate the key actors and institutions involved in international dispute settlement and the legal principles governing that activity.
- Identify and apply relevant legal principles in international dispute settlement to develop original solutions to current and emerging problems in international law.
- Formulate and communicate original legal arguments having regard to a range of international perspectives.

Delivery and Resources

Technology Used

An iLearn page will be available for this unit and includes information vital for the successful completion of this unit. Internet access is therefore required to undertake this unit. Topical items will be posted on iLearn for discussion and engagement with the unit content.

The Research Paper and Pleadings/Legal Advice must be submitted via turnitin.

Delivery

Lectures on each of the 12 topics will be pre-recorded and available on iLearn (through Echo). The schedule of topics to be covered in the lectures is available on iLearn and a list is available below (unit schedule).

This Unit is delivered as a Block. There are no weekly tutorials. All students are required to attend one on-campus session (two days) on 17 and 18 September 2018. The on-campus session is compulsory.

Students who are unable to attend the on-campus session must apply for a special consideration. If that application is approved, alternative work will be set in lieu of on-campus attendance. Note that the on-campus session equates to 12 hours class time. Any work assigned in lieu of the on-campus session is estimated to take at least 12 hours to complete. It will also require a separate appointment with the Convenor to assess participation.

Required Text

There is no prescribed text for this unit. Readings are available via the Library website and can easily be accessed via multi search by typing in the Unit course code. Where students are required to only read extracts from the readings, the relevant pages or sections are indicated on iLearn.

Recommended Texts

The following texts will be referred to throughout the Unit:

- Y Tanaka, The Peaceful Settlement of International Disputes (Cambridge University Press, Cambridge, 2018)
