Unit description

This unit examines specialised topics in environmental law, rotating on a yearly basis. Some of the topics covered include biodiversity and biotechnology law, environmental litigation and mediation, Indigenous peoples and resource management, and water and marine biodiversity law. Students will be advised as to the content of the unit each year.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

- Explain and analyse the relationship between international trade law and sustainable development
- Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of the philosophy and key decisions of the World Trade Organization relating to environment and sustainable development
- Analyse the regulatory impact of trade related aspects of Multilateral Environmental Agreements
- Identify shortcomings of those relevant institutions dealing with trade and environment and make recommendations for law reform and/or further research

- Describe the key institutions and actors through which international environmental law and international trade law interact
- Explain the impact of international trade law upon the interests of the Global South

General Assessment Information

Late Submission of Assessment

- Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply - two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date - and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments - e.g. quizzes, online tests.
- All work is to be submitted via turnitin and students must have access to computer with reliable internet access when using iLearn.

Rubrics

- Rubrics for each assessment will be made available on iLearn.

Assessment Tasks

Synopsis	10%	Yes	25 March 2018 5pm
Assignment 1	30%	No	15 April 2018 5pm
Research Paper	50%	No	11 June 2018 5pm

Participation

Due: Ongoing

Weighting: 10%

Class Participation

All students are required to attend at least 80% of classes.

The following non-exhaustive criteria list will be used to assess your class participation:

- The level of preparedness for each seminar/on campus session gauged by your responses to questions and answers and opinions offered throughout each class.

- The level of analysis you display in class.
- Your ability to answer questions put directly to you in class.
- Your ability to make an educated and legally feasible argument in class.
- The way in which you engage in a constructive way with other students and the Convenor in the class.
- The quality NOT quantity of your work in class. Please note that the onus to participate in class is on you not on the Convenor. In other words, it is not the job of the Convenor to engage you in discussion so that you may avail yourself of the class participation assessment.

Online Participation The Convenor or Tutor will also assess participation on discussion forums for this unit to elicit evidence of students' understanding of the course materials. In order to receive marks from online participation, students are required to provide a critical response of a peer's research synopsis through iLearn. This is a short response which provides students an opportunity to receive critical and constructive feedback for their final essay ideas. In providing responses, students should identify both weak and strong points of their peer's essay ideas. Provide at least 1 short response on each topic of the course. Each week a thread will be posted where students must contribute a critical evaluation based on the topic's reading material. As aforementioned, marks will be based on the quality of material posted, not the length and quantity of responses. Responses are due one week from when the thread is started.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Explain and analyse the relationship between international trade law and sustainable development
- Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of the philosophy and key decisions of the World Trade Organization relating to environment and sustainable development
- Analyse the regulatory impact of trade related aspects of Multilateral Environmental Agreements
- Identify shortcomings of those relevant institutions dealing with trade and environment and make recommendations for law reform and/or further research
- Describe the key institutions and actors through which international environmental law and international trade law interact
- Explain the impact of international trade law upon the interests of the Global South

Synopsis

Due: 25 March 2018 5pm

Weighting: 10%

This is a hurdle assessment task (see assessment policy for more information on hurdle

assessment tasks)

Students are expected to choose their respective research topic from the topics suggested below. This is a thought provoking exercise intended to stimulate students to work out an appropriate proposal of research. However, students who are unable to select a topic of research and to formulate a research proposal may be assisted. They are advised to approach the Convenor after exhausting their own sincere efforts. Each student is required to submit a one page outline of your research topic for approval by no later than end of Week 4 of the semester. Feedback will be provided on the viability of the proposed research with a view to support the skills for independent research at an early stage. This will be marked on a Pass/Fail basis.

(Students who do not submit a Synopsis for their Research Paper will receive a Fail Grade of zero for the unit).

Topic List:

- 1. Trade, Agriculture and GMO's
- 2. Trade and Sustainable Government Procurement

On successful completion you will be able to:

- • Explain and analyse the relationship between international trade law and sustainable development
- • Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of the philosophy and key decisions of the World Trade Organization relating to environment and sustainable development
- • Analyse the regulatory impact of trade related aspects of Multilateral Environmental Agreements
- • Identify shortcomings of those relevant institutions dealing with trade and environment and make recommendations for law reform and/or further research
- • Describe the key institutions and actors through which international environmental law and international trade law interact
- • Explain the impact of international trade law upon the interests of the Global South

Assignment 1

Due: 15 April 2018 5pm

Weighting: 30%

The first assignment will be a written assessment answering a set question provided to all students. This question will be provided to students within the first two weeks of the semester. The paper should be no more than 2000 words (for which there is no 10% leeway). Students will be assessed on their understanding and explanation of the legal issues presented, the depth of their research as well as their critical evaluation of the relevant issues. Research should extend beyond the prescribed books and course materials (the recommended books and journals provide a starting point for further research). Clarity of expression, presentation of argument, responsiveness to question, and correct and consistent reference style will also be taken into account. The paper should be well structured including sub-headings where appropriate. The introduction should set out the scope of the paper. Students need to include sufficient detail of the specific legal principles or regime and analysis/application of that law. Be sure to answer the question asked. The conclusion should include recommendations for new law, law reform, further research and/or creative application of the existing law where appropriate. The essay should be fully referenced according to the Australian Guide to Legal Citation.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Explain and analyse the relationship between international trade law and sustainable development
- Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of the philosophy and key decisions of the World Trade Organization relating to environment and sustainable development
- Analyse the regulatory impact of trade related aspects of Multilateral Environmental Agreements
- Identify shortcomings of those relevant institutions dealing with trade and environment and make recommendations for law reform and/or further research

Research Paper

Due: 11 June 2018 5pm

Weighting: 50%

Students will be required to prepare a 3,000 word research paper on one of the listed topics. Please refer to instructions under the Synopsis above.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Explain and analyse the relationship between international trade law and sustainable development
- Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of the philosophy and key decisions of the World Trade Organization relating to environment and sustainable development
- Analyse the regulatory impact of trade related aspects of Multilateral Environmental Agreements
- Identify shortcomings of those relevant institutions dealing with trade and environment and make recommendations for law reform and/or further research
- Describe the key institutions and actors through which international environmental law and international trade law interact
- Explain the impact of international trade law upon the interests of the Global South

Graduate Capabilities

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Describe the key institutions and actors through which international environmental law and international trade law interact
- Explain the impact of international trade law upon the interests of the Global South

Capable of Professional and Personal Judgement and Initiative

We want our graduates to have emotional intelligence and sound interpersonal skills and to demonstrate discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgement. They will exercise initiative as needed. They will be capable of risk assessment, and be able to handle ambiguity and complexity, enabling them to be adaptable in diverse and changing environments.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Identify shortcomings of those relevant institutions dealing with trade and environment and make recommendations for law reform and/or further research

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Explain and analyse the relationship between international trade law and sustainable development
- Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of the philosophy and key decisions of the World Trade Organization relating to environment and sustainable development
- Analyse the regulatory impact of trade related aspects of Multilateral Environmental Agreements
- Identify shortcomings of those relevant institutions dealing with trade and environment and make recommendations for law reform and/or further research

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Explain and analyse the relationship between international trade law and sustainable development
- Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of the philosophy and key decisions of the World Trade Organization relating to environment and sustainable development
- Analyse the regulatory impact of trade related aspects of Multilateral Environmental Agreements

- Identify shortcomings of those relevant institutions dealing with trade and environment and make recommendations for law reform and/or further research

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Identify shortcomings of those relevant institutions dealing with trade and environment and make recommendations for law reform and/or further research
- Describe the key institutions and actors through which international environmental law and international trade law interact

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Analyse the regulatory impact of trade related aspects of Multilateral Environmental Agreements

Assessment task

- Participation

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Explain the impact of international trade law upon the interests of the Global South

Socially and Environmentally Active and Responsible

We want our graduates to be aware of and have respect for self and others; to be able to work with others as a leader and a team player; to have a sense of connectedness with others and country; and to have a sense of mutual obligation. Our graduates should be informed and active participants in moving society towards sustainability.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate an in-depth understanding of the philosophy and key decisions of the World Trade Organization relating to environment and sustainable development
- Analyse the regulatory impact of trade related aspects of Multilateral Environmental Agreements
