Unit description

What it means to be identified as male, female, or other on the gender spectrum varies with time and place. Meanings of gender and challenges to them are tied up with the dynamics of power, with dreams of freedom, with the distribution of resources, and with cultural representations in a society's gender order. This unit is an introduction to Gender Studies, an interdisciplinary field that seeks to understand gendered meanings and differences, to recognize how these interlock with sexuality, race, class, disability, and other identities, and to analyse how such intersecting identities shape human experience at the social and individual level. We establish foundational knowledge of and key concepts in how gender has been theorised and researched over time, particularly since the late 1960s, and explore the interactions between grassroots gender liberation movements and scholarship in disciplines across the social sciences and humanities. The unit can be taken as a one-off elective in any degree, or in pursuit of a major or minor in Gender Studies.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Analyse key concepts about gender, its intersections with other identities, and how these shape and are shaped by social, cultural, economic, and political institutions.

Examine Gender Studies as an interdisciplinary field and its contribution to understanding the contemporary world.

Review the historical development of different forms of feminism, what they have contributed the field of Gender Studies, and why they matter today.

Demonstrate the ability to research and synthesise media and scholarly texts.

Comprehend the relationship between scholarship, activism, and life. The material itself, which focuses on a range of contemporary issues to do with gender and other identities, will help you to develop a greater understanding of yourself and your world.

General Assessment Information

There are 5 assessments in GEN110, consisting of weekly tutorial participation, weekly multiple choice quizzes, a key concepts comprehension task, an essay, and a research skills quiz. Taken together, the tasks are designed to aid your learning, test your understanding of the unit material, and give you core skills for doing well at university.

Tasks 3 and 4 must be submitted via Turnitin.

Students should be aware of the following policies in regard to assignments:

Academic Honesty Policy: http://www.mq.edu.au/policy/docs/academic_honesty/policy.html. The university takes plagiarism very seriously and there are penalties for using other people's work as your own. This includes directly quoting other people's work without quotation marks and/or acknowledgement. Please check this unit's iLearn site for resources on how to cite your sources properly and avoid plagiarism.

Special Consideration Policy: <https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policies/special-consideration>

Assessment Policy: <https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policies/assessment>. For specifics on Grading Policy, click on the "Schedule 1" tab.

Requests for Extensions

To request an extension for a period up to and including 5 working days, please email your tutor.

To apply for an extension of more than 5 working days please complete a Special Consideration request and submit it online through AskMQ. For more information see the Special Consideration Policy above and find further details here: <https://students.mq.edu.au/study/my-study-program/special-consideration/disruption-to-studies>.

Late Assessment Penalty

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply—two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date—and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments—e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Online tutorial participation	10%	No	Weekly
Quizzes	20%	No	Ongoing from weeks 2-11
Key concepts comprehension	25%	No	Sunday Week 5
Final essay	40%	No	Sunday Week 13
Research Skills Quiz	5%	No	Throughout semester

Online tutorial participation

Due: Weekly

Weighting: 10%

External students: Active engagement in discussion is an important part of university learning. Online tutorial participation is required each week of the semester. Your mark will reflect the quality and quantity of your participation. It takes into consideration:

- your knowledge of the material (you show evidence that you have listened to the lectures and done the required reading)
- your active participation in discussions and tasks. This includes, at minimum, responding to questions posed by the tutor and responding to what others in your tutorial have said.
- your overall contribution.

Note that you are expected to participate in 80% of the tutorials. Active participation in less than 80% of tutorials will incur a 'fail' unless exceptional circumstances prevail and Special Consideration is granted.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Analyse key concepts about gender, its intersections with other identities, and how these shape and are shaped by social, cultural, economic, and political institutions.
- Examine Gender Studies as an interdisciplinary field and its contribution to understanding the contemporary world.
- Review the historical development of different forms of feminism, what they have contributed the field of Gender Studies, and why they matter today.
- Demonstrate the ability to research and synthesise media and scholarly texts.
- Comprehend the relationship between scholarship, activism, and life. The material itself, which focuses on a range of contemporary issues to do with gender and other identities, will help you to develop a greater understanding of yourself and your world.

Quizzes

Due: Ongoing from weeks 2-11

Weighting: 20%

Students will be required to complete a multiple choice quiz each week: 10 quizzes in total, equalling 20 questions. The quizzes will ask you about content from the lectures and from your weekly readings. Each quiz contains 2 questions (2 questions per topic, 1 topics per week=2 questions each week x 10 weeks = 20 questions total). Quizzes are scheduled to start on Wednesdays after lectures and close on the following Tuesdays at midnight. This means that the quizzes have a deadline, and they must be completed in the one week window of time that they are open.

Students are advised to start attempting the quizzes well ahead of the deadline. There are no extensions, including for last-minute technical problems or forgetting to submit on time. You will need to provide documentation explaining your absence for the entire duration of a quiz (one week) in order to apply for special consideration. Please be advised that the convenor will not respond to any requests to re-open quizzes, to extend their deadlines, or to open them early.

It is very important to click on the save button for each answer as you go, and when you are happy with your answers, click on the submit button. Without saving each answer and submitting them at the end, they will not be counted. You will be able to change your mind on a saved answer, and save it again, as many times as you want before submitting it. Your saved answers can be retrieved even if you forget to submit them; if they are not saved, however, they cannot be retrieved and will not count.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Analyse key concepts about gender, its intersections with other identities, and how these shape and are shaped by social, cultural, economic, and political institutions.
- Examine Gender Studies as an interdisciplinary field and its contribution to understanding the contemporary world.
- Review the historical development of different forms of feminism, what they have contributed the field of Gender Studies, and why they matter today.
- Demonstrate the ability to research and synthesise media and scholarly texts.
- Comprehend the relationship between scholarship, activism, and life. The material itself, which focuses on a range of contemporary issues to do with gender and other identities, will help you to develop a greater understanding of yourself and your world.

Key concepts comprehension

Due: Sunday Week 5

Weighting: 25%

Write a maximum 1,250 word analytical response to the assignment task (see the document with details on iLearn).

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Analyse key concepts about gender, its intersections with other identities, and how these shape and are shaped by social, cultural, economic, and political institutions.
- Examine Gender Studies as an interdisciplinary field and its contribution to understanding the contemporary world.
- Review the historical development of different forms of feminism, what they have contributed the field of Gender Studies, and why they matter today.
- Demonstrate the ability to research and synthesise media and scholarly texts.
- Comprehend the relationship between scholarship, activism, and life. The material itself, which focuses on a range of contemporary issues to do with gender and other identities, will help you to develop a greater understanding of yourself and your world.

Final essay

Due: Sunday Week 13

Weighting: 40%

Write a 1,500 word analytical essay on ONE of the questions (see document on iLearn for details).

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Analyse key concepts about gender, its intersections with other identities, and how these shape and are shaped by social, cultural, economic, and political institutions.
- Examine Gender Studies as an interdisciplinary field and its contribution to understanding the contemporary world.
- Review the historical development of different forms of feminism, what they have contributed the field of Gender Studies, and why they matter today.
- Demonstrate the ability to research and synthesise media and scholarly texts.
- Comprehend the relationship between scholarship, activism, and life. The material itself, which focuses on a range of contemporary issues to do with gender and other identities, will help you to develop a greater understanding of yourself and your world.

Research Skills Quiz

Due: Throughout semester

Weighting: 5%

To help you prepare for doing well in assessment tasks, you will be required to undertake three University Research Skills modules including University Study Skills and Resources, Research and Referencing, and Academic Integrity. Each module has a quiz testing skills developed in that module. These modules orient you to and develop critical academic skills that you will build on throughout your degree. The average results of the quizzes will comprise 5 per cent of the overall mark for GEN110.

Further information is available on our iLearn site where you can access and undertake the modules online during the semester.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Analyse key concepts about gender, its intersections with other identities, and how these shape and are shaped by social, cultural, economic, and political institutions.
- Demonstrate the ability to research and synthesise media and scholarly texts.

Delivery and Resources

Lectures will be on Wednesdays, 2pm to 4pm. The lecture room is: X5B T1.

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Analyse key concepts about gender, its intersections with other identities, and how these shape and are shaped by social, cultural, economic, and political institutions.
- Examine Gender Studies as an interdisciplinary field and its contribution to understanding the contemporary world.

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Analyse key concepts about gender, its intersections with other identities, and how these shape and are shaped by social, cultural, economic, and political institutions.
