Prerequisites

One AHIX unit at 100 level and two AHIX units at 200 level

Corequisites

Co-badged status

The Unit is co-badged with the Macquarie Unit AHIS341

Unit description

Alexander the Great's extraordinary conquests (towards the end of the fourth century BCE) opened up vast areas of the ancient Near East to Greek influences. In this unit students will explore the immediate and longer term impact of Alexander's conquests. They will examine in detail the political and cultural history of the eastern Mediterranean and the Near East from the death of Alexander down to the end of the first century BCE. They will analyse the fortunes of Alexander's successors in the third and second centuries BCE, the developments brought on both for Greeks and those they conquered, the "Hellenisation" of native peoples, reactions to cultural change, and the eventual contact and conflict with the Romans.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.open.edu.au/student-admin-and-support/key-dates/>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Learning from a variety of ancient text types and other ancient sources relevant to the aftermath of the career of Alexander the Great, and the political, social and cultural history of the subsequent Hellenistic period

Showing an awareness of the differing kinds of ancient evidence (including textual, epigraphic, numismatic and archaeological evidence) and appropriate methods for dealing with them

Contextualising particular ancient documents and other sources of information within their wider cultural environment

Gaining a comprehension of ancient world-views and cultural concepts

Gaining an awareness of the complexity of ancient accounts of past events and experiences

Conducting independent research on a chosen topic

Engaging with and responding critically to a variety of scholarly opinions

Formulating an independent view in dialogue with both ancient evidence and modern interpretations

General Assessment Information

Macquarie University students have a responsibility to be familiar with the Student Code of Conduct, and particularly with the Academic Honesty policy. (Links to both will be found under "Policies and Procedures" below.) Note particularly that any work found to be plagiarised will normally receive 0%. The issue of plagiarism will be specifically discussed in the first tutorial, but it is the responsibility of the student to be aware of University and Departmental policy on academic honesty.

Late Assignments:

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

IMPORTANT NOTE ON FINAL MARKS: Please note with respect to the marks you receive for work during the session: that the marks given are indicative only; final marks will be determined after moderation. See further the note on Results in the Policies and Procedures section below.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Short Paper (c. 1,000 words)	20%	No	Variable
Major Essay	35%	No	Monday October 8th
Tutorial / Forum Participation	15%	No	End of Semester/Exam Date

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Examination	30%	No	November 12th - 30th

Short Paper (c. 1,000 words)

Due: Variable

Weighting: 20%

The Short Paper topics, which also form the basis for Web Forum discussion, are given in the main Unit Booklet, downloadable from the Unit iLearn page. You must hand in one Short Paper (of approximately 1,000 words) from one of Weeks 2-7.

Students must submit their Short Paper by the end of the week after the one in which it is discussed. Thus Week 2's Short Paper is due before midnight on Sunday at the end of Week 3, etc. This is so you have the opportunity to benefit from the online Forum discussion before you finalise your short paper.

For each week you will find a number of questions on the document(s) or other evidence set, and an overall interpretative question. All of these ought to be prepared for the weekly Tutorial or Forum. When you decide to hand in the short paper based on a particular week's topic, you should write on the overall interpretative question, using the individual questions as a guide as to what ought to be discussed to answer that question.

The Short Papers are exercises in careful and critical examination of ancient evidence. Their aim is to develop skills of analysis and deduction, and the ability to write a lucid short answer to a precise set of questions. They are not primarily exercises in the collection of the opinions of others, even if those others are great scholars. The assignments will be marked primarily on your understanding of the sources themselves.

Please note that essay form is required for all work submitted. Point form or extended notes are not good enough. Footnotes should be given, and should conform to the rules laid out in "Anchist - Assignment Presentation Style Guide.pdf", which is available online from the Unit iLearn page.

Short Papers are to be submitted via Turnitin on the Unit iLearn page for the relevant week.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Learning from a variety of ancient text types and other ancient sources relevant to the aftermath of the career of Alexander the Great, and the political, social and cultural history of the subsequent Hellenistic period
- Showing an awareness of the differing kinds of ancient evidence (including textual, epigraphic, numismatic and archaeological evidence) and appropriate methods for dealing with them
- Contextualising particular ancient documents and other sources of information within their wider cultural environment

- Gaining an awareness of the complexity of ancient accounts of past events and experiences
- Conducting independent research on a chosen topic
- Formulating an independent view in dialogue with both ancient evidence and modern interpretations

Major Essay

Due: Monday October 8th

Weighting: 35%

The essays, of approximately 2,500 words, are due on Monday October 8th. Wider reading is required for the essays. Essay formalities should follow the guidelines in “Anchist - Assignment Presentation Style Guide.pdf”, which is available online (as above). Footnotes and a full Bibliography are required. A list of topics with basic bibliographies will be made available early in Semester.

Major Essays are to be submitted via Turnitin on the Unit iLearn page.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Learning from a variety of ancient text types and other ancient sources relevant to the aftermath of the career of Alexander the Great, and the political, social and cultural history of the subsequent Hellenistic period
- Showing an awareness of the differing kinds of ancient evidence (including textual, epigraphic, numismatic and archaeological evidence) and appropriate methods for dealing with them
- Contextualising particular ancient documents and other sources of information within their wider cultural environment
- Gaining a comprehension of ancient world-views and cultural concepts
- Gaining an awareness of the complexity of ancient accounts of past events and experiences
- Conducting independent research on a chosen topic
- Engaging with and responding critically to a variety of scholarly opinions
- Formulating an independent view in dialogue with both ancient evidence and modern interpretations

Tutorial / Forum Participation

Due: End of Semester/Exam Date

Weighting: 15%

Students will be marked on their participation in the weekly Online Forums. This participation continues throughout Semester; the weekly forums do not close at the end of "their" week. Participation is marked on both the number of postings, and the quality of those postings. Further information about Web Forum participation will be made available in Week 1 of Semester.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Learning from a variety of ancient text types and other ancient sources relevant to the aftermath of the career of Alexander the Great, and the political, social and cultural history of the subsequent Hellenistic period
- Contextualising particular ancient documents and other sources of information within their wider cultural environment
- Gaining a comprehension of ancient world-views and cultural concepts
- Gaining an awareness of the complexity of ancient accounts of past events and experiences
- Engaging with and responding critically to a variety of scholarly opinions
- Formulating an independent view in dialogue with both ancient evidence and modern interpretations

Examination

Due: November 12th - 30th

Weighting: 30%

The examination for this unit will ask you to write four short essays out of a range of approx. fifteen questions. The exam will be divided into (a) three sections with approx. five questions each; you must do one question out of each section; (b) one compulsory question on the use of differing types of ancient evidence, which students can answer in relation to various parts of the Unit content. All questions are of equal value. The sections will be as follows:

- Section 1: The first generation of the Successors to Alexander (approx. Weeks 1-4)
- Section 2: The Kingdoms and Culture of the Hellenistic world and responses to them (approx. Weeks 5-10)
- Section 3: The Later Hellenistic period and the rise of Rome, and Unit Summary (approx. Weeks 11-13).
- Section 4: Compulsory Question

Further information about the Exam will be made available closer to the time.

The exam will be made available for a period of precisely one week, from 0900 (EST) Wednesday of Week 13 (November 7th) to 2355 (EST) Wednesday of the following week (November 14th). It will be a "take home" (Online) exam, meaning that you can decide for yourself how much time to spend on it during the given week. The exam will be found on iLearn in the "Assessments, Resources, and Guides" section, at 0900 on Wednesday of Week 13.

Treat the exam as much as possible as if you were doing it under 'exam conditions'. In particular, don't make it into another essay: don't give footnotes and bibliographies, but work principally from memory. The idea is to gauge how effectively you can argue and draw conclusions from material discussed in the unit, and scholarly work you have read.

You are asked if possible to do the take-home exam in three hours. This cannot be policed, and you may give yourself longer if you think it helps; but note that 2,500 words amount to about 625 words per answer, and there will be no extra marks for extra length.

The only exception to sitting an examination at the designated time is because of documented illness or unavoidable disruption. In these circumstances you may wish to consider applying under the University's Special Consideration provisions. Information about unavoidable disruption and the Special Consideration process is available under the Extensions and Special Consideration section of this Unit Guide.

If a Supplementary Examination is granted as a result of the Special Consideration process, the examination will be scheduled after the conclusion of the official examination period.

You are advised that it is Macquarie University policy not to set early examinations for individuals or groups of students. All students are expected to ensure that they are available until the end of the teaching semester, that is, the final day of the official examination period.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Learning from a variety of ancient text types and other ancient sources relevant to the aftermath of the career of Alexander the Great, and the political, social and cultural history of the subsequent Hellenistic period
- Showing an awareness of the differing kinds of ancient evidence (including textual, epigraphic, numismatic and archaeological evidence) and appropriate methods for dealing with them
- Contextualising particular ancient documents and other sources of information within their wider cultural environment
- Engaging with and responding critically to a variety of scholarly opinions
- Formulating an independent view in dialogue with both ancient evidence and modern interpretations

Delivery and Resources

Technology:

Lectures will be given live and also made available on Echo360. Visual materials used in lectures will be made available as PDF files on iLearn. Brief bibliographies, lists of people, places and technical terms will be made available for each lecture as PDF files on iLearn.

Access to a computer and the Internet are required. Basic computer skills (e.g., internet browsing, use of the Library's online resources and skills in word processing) are also a requirement. You will need a copy of Adobe Acrobat Reader, since (as noted above) most Unit documents are provided in PDF format. This software is freely available on the Internet. Please consult the Course Convenor for any further, more specific requirements.

Tutorials will be held for Internal students; for External and OUA students there will be regular postings on iLearn and discussion on the Online Forum.

Lectures:

For lecture times and classrooms please consult the MQ Timetable website: <http://www.timetable.s.mq.edu.au>. This website will display up-to-date information on your classes and classroom locations. At the time of printing the details were as follows:

Lecture times: Wednesday 9am, C5A313 (= 12SW 313), and Thursday 11am, W6B208 (= 25WW 208). Echo360 recordings of the lectures will normally be available within only a few hours of the live lectures.

Books you will need:

The two prescribed books for the Unit are

(1) M.M. Austin, The Hellenistic World from Alexander to the Roman Conquest, 2nd edition, Cambridge, 2006,

(2) G. Shipley, The Greek World after Alexander, Routledge, 2000.

Weekly Web Forum discussion will focus around the detailed examination of particular documents. Most of these come from Austin's book. The others will be provided in the main Unit booklet, which will be made available as a PDF download from the Unit iLearn page. Students will need to work through the documents in detail before posting to the Web Forum, and in many cases do some wider reading as well. There is little point posting without doing this reading. Our aim will be to explore issues raised by the documents in as much detail as possible.

Other Material:

A PDF file of introductory material, Unit requirements, Weekly schedule, Tutorial questions and a full Unit Bibliography will be made available on iLearn. This is referred to as the main Unit Booklet.

Extension Request

Special Consideration Policy and Procedure
(<https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policies/special-consideration>)

The University recognises that students may experience events or conditions that adversely affect their academic performance. If you experience serious and unavoidable difficulties at exam time or when assessment tasks are due, you can consider applying for Special Consideration.

You need to show that the circumstances:

1. were serious, unexpected and unavoidable
2. were beyond your control
3. caused substantial disruption to your academic work
4. substantially interfered with your otherwise satisfactory fulfilment of the unit requirements
5. lasted at least three consecutive days or a total of 5 days within the teaching period and prevented completion of an assessment task scheduled for a specific date.

If you feel that your studies have been impacted submit an application as follows:

1. Visit Ask MQ and use your OneID to log in
2. Fill in your relevant details

3. Attach supporting documents by clicking 'Add a reply', click 'Browse' and navigating to the files you want to attach, then click 'Submit Form' to send your notification and supporting documents
4. Please keep copies of your original documents, as they may be requested in the future as part of the assessment process

Outcome

Once your submission is assessed, an appropriate outcome will be organised.

OUA Specific Policies and Procedures

Withdrawal from a unit after the census date

You can withdraw from your subjects prior to the census date (last day to withdraw). If you successfully withdraw before the census date, you won't need to apply for Special Circumstances. If you find yourself unable to withdraw from your subjects before the census date - you might be able to apply for Special Circumstances. If you're eligible, we can refund your fees and overturn your fail grade.

If you're studying Single Subjects using FEE-HELP or paying up front, you can apply online.

If you're studying a degree using HECS-HELP, you'll need to apply directly to Macquarie University.

Graduate Capabilities

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Conducting independent research on a chosen topic
- Engaging with and responding critically to a variety of scholarly opinions
- Formulating an independent view in dialogue with both ancient evidence and modern interpretations

Assessment tasks

- Short Paper (c. 1,000 words)
- Major Essay
- Examination

Capable of Professional and Personal Judgement and Initiative

We want our graduates to have emotional intelligence and sound interpersonal skills and to demonstrate discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgement. They will exercise initiative as needed. They will be capable of risk assessment, and be able to handle ambiguity and complexity, enabling them to be adaptable in diverse and changing environments.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Learning from a variety of ancient text types and other ancient sources relevant to the aftermath of the career of Alexander the Great, and the political, social and cultural history of the subsequent Hellenistic period
- Showing an awareness of the differing kinds of ancient evidence (including textual, epigraphic, numismatic and archaeological evidence) and appropriate methods for dealing with them
- Gaining an awareness of the complexity of ancient accounts of past events and experiences

Commitment to Continuous Learning

Our graduates will have enquiring minds and a literate curiosity which will lead them to pursue knowledge for its own sake. They will continue to pursue learning in their careers and as they participate in the world. They will be capable of reflecting on their experiences and relationships with others and the environment, learning from them, and growing - personally, professionally and socially.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Gaining a comprehension of ancient world-views and cultural concepts

Assessment tasks

- Major Essay
- Tutorial / Forum Participation
- Examination

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Learning from a variety of ancient text types and other ancient sources relevant to the aftermath of the career of Alexander the Great, and the political, social and cultural history of the subsequent Hellenistic period

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Learning from a variety of ancient text types and other ancient sources relevant to the aftermath of the career of Alexander the Great, and the political, social and cultural history of the subsequent Hellenistic period

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Changes from Previous Offering

The Unit was last offered in Semester 1, 2017, as "Alexander the Great and the Hellenistic Age". Since then AHIS204, "Philip II, Alexander the Great, and the Macedonian Empire" has been introduced. This Unit now begins with the situation at the death of Alexander, and covers the period down to the turn of the era.

In previous iterations of the Unit Short Papers could be submitted for any weekly discussion topic through Semester. For Semester 2 2018 students must submit their Short Paper from one of Weeks 2-7. Later topics are only assessed under Participation.

Extensions and Completion

Extensions and Special Consideration

All deadlines are firm unless an extension has been requested through the Special Consideration procedure.

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests."

IMPORTANT NOTE ON FINAL MARKS:

Please note with respect to the marks you receive for work during the session: that the marks given are indicative only; final marks will be determined after moderation. See further the note on Results in the Policies and Procedures section.

Always retain a copy of completed tasks in case of loss or other technical problems.

Completing the Unit

In order to complete the unit satisfactorily students must gain a mark of 50% or more overall.

Students will need to listen to the lectures and reflect on them, do the set weekly reading(s), and participate in either the Tutorials or the online discussion Forums in a manner which demonstrates they have done these things. They must submit all items of assessment, and hand in work which is formatted in accordance with Department of Ancient History guidelines, spell-checked, written in good English, and demonstrating both an understanding of the material in the lectures and readings, and independent reflection on the subject of the assessment.
