Unit description

This unit is a study of the history of Rome in the fifth and fourth centuries BCE, from the establishment of the Roman republic to the time of the first Punic War. The work draws on Livy, other literary sources including Plutarch, and to some degree the findings of archaeological research.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate understanding and retention of information from primary sources relating to Rome in the fifth and fourth centuries BC.

Demonstrate ability to interpret primary literary sources relating to Rome in the fifth and fourth centuries, studied in English translation.

Demonstrate ability to understand and interpret published archaeological data relating to Rome and Italy in the fifth and fourth centuries.

Demonstrate critical understanding and evaluation of modern academic studies of early

Roman history, in English.

Write analytical and argumentative studies relating to important questions in Roman history.

Present written work to a high standard, with relevant footnoting and accurate bibliographies.

General Assessment Information

How to submit your work

Written work must be submitted through Turnitin in the iLearn website for the unit.

Extensions

Please submit your work on time.

If you want an extension you must apply for special consideration (<https://students.mq.edu.au/study/my-study-program/special-consideration>).

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Results

Results shown in iLearn, or released directly by your Unit Convenor, are not confirmed as they are subject to final approval by the University. Once approved, final results will be sent to your student email address and will be made available in eStudent. For more information visit ask.mq.edu.au.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Minor essay	20%	No	13 August 2018
Major essay	30%	No	19 October 2018
End of session examination	50%	No	As scheduled

Minor essay

Due: 13 August 2018

Weighting: 20%

Answer this question in a brief essay (i.e. shorter than 1000 words, counting footnotes but not counting bibliography):

What does Livy's story of the rape of Lucretia show about the public and private values of the Roman republic?

This brief essay is set for completion at the beginning of Week 3 of the semester, to help students get an idea of the standard for the unit, and how they are going. Bibliographical suggestions should be drawn from the bibliographies for Weeks 1 and 2. Students should also find relevant ancient sources, and scholarly books and articles, for themselves, since a valuable research skill is developed by doing this.

DO NOT use internet sources of low quality (for example, most of those without a named author would count as being of low quality). The minor essay will be marked and returned as soon as possible. There will be no choice of topic for this essay, in view of how limited the range of work is which has been covered by this stage in the unit.

The Department of Ancient History Assignment Presentation Style Guide should be followed for all the essays in this unit.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate understanding and retention of information from primary sources relating to Rome in the fifth and fourth centuries BC.
- Demonstrate ability to interpret primary literary sources relating to Rome in the fifth and fourth centuries, studied in English translation.
- Demonstrate ability to understand and interpret published archaeological data relating to Rome and Italy in the fifth and fourth centuries.
- Demonstrate critical understanding and evaluation of modern academic studies of early Roman history, in English.
- Write analytical and argumentative studies relating to important questions in Roman history.
- Present written work to a high standard, with relevant footnoting and accurate bibliographies.

Major essay

Due: 19 October 2018

Weighting: 30%

The major essay should be shorter than 2000 words counting footnotes but not counting bibliography.

A greater depth of study and a fuller range of reading are expected in the case of the major essay.

Initial bibliographical suggestions should be drawn from bibliographies in the iLearn unit. Students should also find relevant ancient sources, and scholarly books and articles, for themselves, since a valuable research skill is developed by doing this.

DO NOT use internet sources of low quality (for example, most of those without a named author would count as being of low quality).

Major essay titles:

1. Dionysius of Halicarnassus said that 'History is philosophy learned from examples'. Compare the lessons Dionysius wished to teach in Books 10 and 11 of his Roman Antiquities with the lessons Niccolò Macchiavelli wished to teach in his Discourses on the first Decade of Livy.

2. 'The Vestals', writes Inge Kroppenber, 'represented the living Roman Republic. Their inauguration into the cult of Vesta, the captio, was a mythical and ritual process, both violent and sovereign, allowing the res publica to experience an immaculate new beginning.'

In view of the pre-republican origin of the Vestal Virgins, can Kroppenber's view be convincingly maintained?

3. 'Very little in the sources ... prepares us for the universal belief among early modern historians that the gens was of surpassing influence in the creation of the early state, and the organisation of its early civic life' (C.J. Smith). Was the gens as such ever a key to political power at Rome? If not, how did the gens relate to real loci of power?

4. 'We must ... turn to Livy and ... try to assess the extent to which the Pontifical Tables and ... other sources ... channelled reliable information into the annalistic tradition. This procedure relies almost entirely on assessing the inherent probability of L.'s evidence and working from there to assessments of the quality of his ultimate sources' (S.P. Oakley).

Is it possible to do actual history under these conditions, or only myth? Focus on one or two historical issues of your choice from Livy 6-10.

The Department of Ancient History Assignment Presentation Style Guide should be followed for all the essays in this unit.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate understanding and retention of information from primary sources relating to Rome in the fifth and fourth centuries BC.
- Demonstrate ability to interpret primary literary sources relating to Rome in the fifth and fourth centuries, studied in English translation.
- Demonstrate ability to understand and interpret published archaeological data relating to Rome and Italy in the fifth and fourth centuries.
- Demonstrate critical understanding and evaluation of modern academic studies of early Roman history, in English.
- Write analytical and argumentative studies relating to important questions in Roman history.

- Present written work to a high standard, with relevant footnoting and accurate bibliographies.

End of session examination

Due: As scheduled

Weighting: 50%

There will be a two-hour exam at the end of semester. There will be a choice of questions, and students may choose to answer either two or three.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate understanding and retention of information from primary sources relating to Rome in the fifth and fourth centuries BC.
- Demonstrate ability to interpret primary literary sources relating to Rome in the fifth and fourth centuries, studied in English translation.
- Demonstrate ability to understand and interpret published archaeological data relating to Rome and Italy in the fifth and fourth centuries.
- Demonstrate critical understanding and evaluation of modern academic studies of early Roman history, in English.

Delivery and Resources

Lectures will be recorded and available via Echo 360.

Resources are available in iLearn.

There are items available for this unit in Leganto.

There are no tutorials. Attendance at lectures is recommended.

PC and Internet access are required. Basic computer skills (e.g., internet browsing) and skills in word processing are also a requirement. Any computer problem, contact onehelp@mq.edu.au (9850 4357) and not the course convener.

Students should be aware of the following policies in particular with regard to Learning and Teaching:

- Academic Appeals Policy
- Academic Integrity Policy
- Academic Progression Policy
- Assessment Policy
- Fitness to Practice Procedure
- Grade Appeal Policy
- Complaint Management Procedure for Students and Members of the Public
- Special Consideration Policy (Note: The Special Consideration Policy is effective from 4 December 2017 and replaces the Disruption to Studies Policy.)

Undergraduate students seeking more policy resources can visit the Student Policy Gateway \(https://students.mq.edu.au/support/study/student-policy-gateway\). It is your one-stop-shop for the key policies you need to know about throughout your undergraduate student journey.

If you would like to see all the policies relevant to Learning and Teaching visit Policy Central \(https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policy-central\).

Student Code of Conduct

Macquarie University students have a responsibility to be familiar with the Student Code of Conduct: <https://students.mq.edu.au/study/getting-started/student-conduct>

Results

Results shown in iLearn, or released directly by your Unit Convenor, are not confirmed as they are subject to final approval by the University. Once approved, final results will be sent to your student email address and will be made available in eStudent. For more information visit ask.mq.edu.au.

How to submit your work

Written work must be submitted through Turnitin in the iLearn website for the unit.

Extensions

Please submit your work on time.

If you want an extension you must apply for special consideration (<https://students.mq.edu.au/study/my-study-program/special-consideration>).

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Pass mark

To complete the unit satisfactorily you will need to achieve an overall mark worth 50% or above.
