Unit description

This unit extends students' capacity to apply specific organisational psychology skills in the workplace. Students will develop skills in training needs analysis, change management, and employee counselling. The placement consists of 250 hours.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate excellent depth and breadth of knowledge and scholarly understanding required of organisational psychologists in determining client needs and designing and implementing evidence-based interventions.

Demonstrate excellent higher level critical thinking skills in their ability both to generate and evaluate new, professionally-oriented knowledge.

Excellent communication across a wide range of client groups, colleagues and other professionals, using a variety of formats to function empathically within and across cultures and life stages.

Demonstrate detailed knowledge of the legislative frameworks relevant to organisational psychologists and undertake practice according to professional standards and the Psychology Board of Australia's code of ethics.

Demonstrate employment-ready level capabilities required of those entering a registrar program in organisational psychology, along with the professional and personal skills for assessing continuous development needs.

General Assessment Information

Please refer to the field placement manual for Organisational Psychology for further information. Adherence with the manual is a requirement of the placement. Please note the manual is a live document that may be updated in line with regulatory or university changes at any time.
