Unit description

Students undertake advanced study to provide a disciplinary basis for future research activity in Graeco-Roman History, examining methodology and interpretative issues related to the discipline.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Analyse and express your judgement about the development of trade in the Roman Near East and specific features of the main cities involved in this trade in oral and written form.

Interpret written and archaeological evidence with appreciation and understanding of their context and modern interpretations of them.

Work with and respond to the views of staff and other students in the unit in both oral and written form.

Plan, revise and submit written work according to schedule.

Draw together and judge pre-selected and self-located evidence to provide an analysis of trade in the Roman Near East and an important element of the cities involved in this trade.

In Class presentation

Due: By 29 October

Weighting: 20%

Students will be assigned to a group of 3 or 4 students which will prepare and present a 30 minute seminar in weeks 4, 9 or 12. The seminar will be followed by 15 minutes of discussion with the rest of the group to be co-ordinated by the presenters. Groups and class presentation times will be assigned in the first seminar. A powerpoint presentation should accompany each presentation. You may use any of the material used by me in the presentations in the weeks before and you are also expected to use material which is self-located.

The questions you should address are contained in the Unit Bibliography and Discussion questions document available on the unit ilearn site.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Analyse and express your judgement about the development of trade in the Roman Near East and specific features of the main cities involved in this trade in oral and written form.
- Interpret written and archaeological evidence with appreciation and understanding of their context and modern interpretations of them.
- Work with and respond to the views of staff and other students in the unit in both oral and written form.
- Plan, revise and submit written work according to schedule.
- Draw together and judge pre-selected and self-located evidence to provide an analysis of trade in the Roman Near East and an important element of the cities involved in this trade.

Major Essay

Due: 10 November

Weighting: 50%

What role did long-distance trade play in the ancient Roman economy? To what extent was local, regional and long-distance trade a feature of life at Dura Europos, Palmyra and Petra in the Hellenistic and/or Roman periods?

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Analyse and express your judgement about the development of trade in the Roman Near East and specific features of the main cities involved in this trade in oral and written form.
- Interpret written and archaeological evidence with appreciation and understanding of their context and modern interpretations of them.
- Work with and respond to the views of staff and other students in the unit in both oral and written form.
- Plan, revise and submit written work according to schedule.
- Draw together and judge pre-selected and self-located evidence to provide an analysis of trade in the Roman Near East and an important element of the cities involved in this trade.

Participation

Due: 30 July - 29 October

Weighting: 15%

Students are expected to actively participate in discussions in class and your mark for participation will be based on this rather than attendance.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Analyse and express your judgement about the development of trade in the Roman Near East and specific features of the main cities involved in this trade in oral and written form.
- Interpret written and archaeological evidence with appreciation and understanding of their context and modern interpretations of them.
- Work with and respond to the views of staff and other students in the unit in both oral and written form.
- Draw together and judge pre-selected and self-located evidence to provide an analysis of trade in the Roman Near East and an important element of the cities involved in this trade.

Blog/Newspaper article

Due: 8 October

Weighting: 15%

A newspaper article or weblog (blog) focusing on the impact of the war in Syria on ancient archaeological sites, especially Palmyra and Dura Europos. More information will be provided on this topic in week 1 of the unit.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Analyse and express your judgement about the development of trade in the Roman Near East and specific features of the main cities involved in this trade in oral and written form.
- Interpret written and archaeological evidence with appreciation and understanding of their context and modern interpretations of them.
