Unit description

This unit introduces students to an array of concepts and research methodologies that underpin various theoretical approaches to legal scholarship, including doctrinal, comparative, interdisciplinary, empirical, and critical legal studies (CLS) approaches, as well as particular issues in human rights and international law research. The unit emphasises theoretical concerns and requirements that pertain to research objectives, research design, research methods, argumentation, writing, and critique including self-critique. The unit also explores the roles, rights and obligations of students in their own scholarship. The unit equips students to better understand the nexus among legal education, legal scholarship and legal practice; enhances their capacity to design research projects with rigorous research methodologies, to proffer good written analyses with sound argumentation, and to reflect on legal scholarship and on the law critically; and helps prepare them for a higher degree by research or for careers in legal practice, government, international organisations, and think tanks, and consultancies.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Identify and locate primary and secondary legal resources from a variety of library and online collections using appropriate research strategies

Apply principles of good written presentation and language to the processes of drafting, editing and re-drafting legal writing

Understand the principles and values that underpin ethical research and academic honesty and apply them in own research.

Accurately apply accepted standards of legal referencing, including the Australian Guide to Legal Citation 4.

Become aware of the capabilities of bibliographic management software to organise references in research

Understand the key elements of a research strategy and work-plan, and apply that to own research project

Understand the different kinds of legal research questions (theoretical, doctrinal, normative, empirical, comparative etc) and the appropriate methodologies for answering them

Understand the principal methods of legal research and apply that understanding to own research project.

General Assessment Information

1. All assignments must be submitted by 5.00pm on the due date.
2. Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.
3. All assessments in the unit are to be submitted electronically via the iLearn site for this unit. Plagiarism detection software is used in this unit.
4. Word limits will be strictly applied and work above the word limit will not be marked. Word counts for assignments will be taken solely from the tally generated automatically by TURNITIN upon submission.
5. You are required to obtain an overall mark of 50% to pass this unit - you are not required to pass each individual item of assessment.
6. Marking of all assessments is moderated through a process of blind marking and the use of detailed marking rubrics.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
1. Active Participation	15%	No	Ongoing
2. Skills	45%	No	Wk 8, Friday 3/05/19, 5pm
3. Legal Research Plan	40%	No	Wk 13, Friday 7/06/19, 5pm

1. Active Participation

Due: Ongoing

Weighting: 15%

'Active participation' means more than simply turning up for the tutorials and on campus sessions. You will also be assessed on:

- Your level of engagement in the discussions and activities during classes;
- Your understanding and level of engagement with the set readings generally;
- Your understanding and discussion of specific readings assigned by your tutor;
- Your participation and level of engagement in online forums; and
- Your participation and level of engagement in peer review tasks.

This unit works best when all students attend and give the entire group the benefit of their views based upon the readings and their own research experience.

Internal Students: One hour tutorials will be held on Tuesdays from 9.00am till 10.00am, starting week 1 and concluding in week 12.

External Students: Dates for the on campus session are 13 and 14 April 2019. External students should also undertake the readings for all 6 modules and prepare for group discussion in the on campus session. More information on the structure of the on campus session will be provided closer to the time on iLearn.

If you cannot attend a tutorial you must send a message on iLearn to the tutor to inform them of the absence. For extended absences of two or more tutorials, or for external students, if you cannot attend an on campus session, you must apply for Special Consideration and support your application with the appropriate documentation. Applications for Special Consideration are made online at ask.mq.edu.au. If that request is accepted, alternative work will be set in lieu of on-campus attendance.

A detailed marking rubric for class participation will be provided on iLearn.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and locate primary and secondary legal resources from a variety of library and online collections using appropriate research strategies
- Understand the principles and values that underpin ethical research and academic honesty and apply them in own research.
- Become aware of the capabilities of bibliographic management software to organise references in research
- Understand the key elements of a research strategy and work-plan, and apply that to own research project
- Understand the different kinds of legal research questions (theoretical, doctrinal, normative, empirical, comparative etc) and the appropriate methodologies for answering them
- Understand the principal methods of legal research and apply that understanding to own research project.

2. Skills

Due: Wk 8, Friday 3/05/19, 5pm

Weighting: 45%

Part A

A time limited compulsory online quiz to test legal referencing skills and an understanding of the Australian Guide to Legal Citation 4 (AGLC4). Students can open the quiz any time after 5pm Thursday 2 May 2019. The quiz will shut down at 5pm the following day (Friday 3 May 2019).

Students will have 30 minutes to complete their answers from the time they open the quiz.

When the 30 minutes has expired, all saved answers will automatically be submitted.

Part B

A practical written assignment to test doctrinal research techniques for finding the law (legislation and cases), its antecedents and its subsequent development.

Detailed marking rubrics for Assessment Task 2 will be provided on iLearn.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and locate primary and secondary legal resources from a variety of library and online collections using appropriate research strategies
- Apply principles of good written presentation and language to the processes of drafting, editing and re-drafting legal writing
- Accurately apply accepted standards of legal referencing, including the Australian Guide to Legal Citation 4.

3. Legal Research Plan

Due: Wk 13, Friday 7/06/19, 5pm

Weighting: 40%

This assignment will require students to select a specific area for research, undertake a literature review of that area, formulate a precise research question, identify a research method and a practical research strategy, and draft a clear heading outline of the research report. It will not require students to write that report. Maximum 3500 words including bibliography excluding footnotes.

A detailed marking rubric for the Legal Research Plan will be provided on iLearn.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify and locate primary and secondary legal resources from a variety of library and online collections using appropriate research strategies
- Apply principles of good written presentation and language to the processes of drafting, editing and re-drafting legal writing
- Understand the principles and values that underpin ethical research and academic honesty and apply them in own research.
- Accurately apply accepted standards of legal referencing, including the Australian Guide to Legal Citation 4.
- Become aware of the capabilities of bibliographic management software to organise references in research
- Understand the key elements of a research strategy and work-plan, and apply that to own research project
- Understand the different kinds of legal research questions (theoretical, doctrinal, normative, empirical, comparative etc) and the appropriate methodologies for answering them
- Understand the principal methods of legal research and apply that understanding to own research project.

Delivery and Resources

INTERNAL STUDENTS: This unit will be delivered through (a) online materials available through iLEARN, and (b) twelve one-hour tutorials.

EXTERNAL STUDENTS: This unit will be delivered through (a) online materials available through iLEARN, and (b) a two day on-campus session (OCS). The OCS will be held on 13 and 14 April 2019. For external students, the on-campus session is compulsory. Students who are unable to attend must apply for special consideration. If that application is accepted, alternative work will be set in lieu of on-campus attendance.

Students can set their own pace for learning, insofar as they can accelerate progress through the modules. However, the due dates for assignments indicate the minimum rate of progress expected of students as the semester advances.

In each module you will be expected to read background materials, watch relevant online video clips, and undertake practical exercises that are intended to build your skills in legal research and writing.

Students should have their own copy of the following prescribed text: Terry Hutchinson, Researching and Writing in Law (Thomson Reuters, 4th ed 2018)

Unit Schedule

Module 1 (Weeks 1 & 2) Legal Research - Legislation

- Introduction
- Finding and using primary legal materials - legislation.
- Searching with legal databases: Austlii, Comlaw, parliamentary websites etc.
- Research strategies
- Using Boolean operators to improve search strategies

Module 2 (Weeks 3 & 4) Legal Research - Cases

- Finding and using primary legal materials - cases.
- Finding and using secondary legal materials
- Searching with legal databases: Hein, Westlaw, LexisNexis, Thomson Reuters, APAIS, etc.
- Research strategies: time, locality, language, subject matter, source.
- Using Boolean operators to improve search strategies.

Module 3 (Weeks 5 & 6) Legal Referencing

- The purposes of bibliographic referencing
- Legal referencing systems, and their critics
- Australian Guide to Legal Citation 4 (AGCL4)
- Bibliographic management software (eg Endnote)
- Use (and abuse) of footnotes in legal writing

Module 4 (Week 7 & 8) Developing a Legal Research Proposal

- Literature review
- Identifying a research gap
- Specifying research method(s) in law
- Developing a realistic research plan (time, money, ethics approvals ...)

Module 5 (Weeks 9 & 10) Research Methodologies

- The relationship between research methodology, research method, and research design.
- Different types of research design in the physical (natural) and social sciences.
- Styles of research in the legal sciences.
- Understanding the differences between the main methods of legal research—doctrinal research; reform-oriented research; empirical socio-legal research; and theoretical research in law.

Module 6 (Weeks 11 & 12) Legal Writing

- Elements of good legal writing
- Plain legal language
- Presentation of written work

Policies and Procedures

Macquarie University policies and procedures are accessible from Policy Central \(https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policy-central\). Students should be aware of the following policies in particular with regard to Learning and Teaching:

Graduate Capabilities

PG - Capable of Professional and Personal Judgment and Initiative

Our postgraduates will demonstrate a high standard of discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgment. They will have the ability to make informed choices and decisions that reflect both the nature of their professional work and their personal perspectives.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand the principles and values that underpin ethical research and academic honesty and apply them in own research.
- Understand the key elements of a research strategy and work-plan, and apply that to own research project
- Understand the principal methods of legal research and apply that understanding to own research project.

Assessment tasks

- 1. Active Participation
- 2. Skills
- 3. Legal Research Plan

PG - Discipline Knowledge and Skills

Our postgraduates will be able to demonstrate a significantly enhanced depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content knowledge in their chosen fields.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Identify and locate primary and secondary legal resources from a variety of library and online collections using appropriate research strategies
- Apply principles of good written presentation and language to the processes of drafting, editing and re-drafting legal writing
- Accurately apply accepted standards of legal referencing, including the Australian Guide to Legal Citation 4.
- Become aware of the capabilities of bibliographic management software to organise references in research
- Understand the different kinds of legal research questions (theoretical, doctrinal, normative, empirical, comparative etc) and the appropriate methodologies for answering them
- Understand the principal methods of legal research and apply that understanding to own research project.

Assessment tasks

- 1. Active Participation
- 2. Skills
- 3. Legal Research Plan

PG - Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

Our postgraduates will be capable of utilising and reflecting on prior knowledge and experience, of applying higher level critical thinking skills, and of integrating and synthesising learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments. A characteristic of this form of thinking is the generation of new, professionally oriented knowledge through personal or group-based critique of practice and theory.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand the key elements of a research strategy and work-plan, and apply that to own research project
- Understand the different kinds of legal research questions (theoretical, doctrinal, normative, empirical, comparative etc) and the appropriate methodologies for answering them
- Understand the principal methods of legal research and apply that understanding to own research project.

Assessment task

- 3. Legal Research Plan

PG - Research and Problem Solving Capability

Our postgraduates will be capable of systematic enquiry; able to use research skills to create new knowledge that can be applied to real world issues, or contribute to a field of study or practice to enhance society. They will be capable of creative questioning, problem finding and problem solving.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Identify and locate primary and secondary legal resources from a variety of library and online collections using appropriate research strategies
- Understand the key elements of a research strategy and work-plan, and apply that to own research project
- Understand the different kinds of legal research questions (theoretical, doctrinal, normative, empirical, comparative etc) and the appropriate methodologies for answering them

- Understand the principal methods of legal research and apply that understanding to own research project.

Assessment tasks

- 2. Skills
- 3. Legal Research Plan

PG - Effective Communication

Our postgraduates will be able to communicate effectively and convey their views to different social, cultural, and professional audiences. They will be able to use a variety of technologically supported media to communicate with empathy using a range of written, spoken or visual formats.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Apply principles of good written presentation and language to the processes of drafting, editing and re-drafting legal writing
- Accurately apply accepted standards of legal referencing, including the Australian Guide to Legal Citation 4.
- Become aware of the capabilities of bibliographic management software to organise references in research
- Understand the key elements of a research strategy and work-plan, and apply that to own research project
- Understand the different kinds of legal research questions (theoretical, doctrinal, normative, empirical, comparative etc) and the appropriate methodologies for answering them
- Understand the principal methods of legal research and apply that understanding to own research project.

Assessment tasks

- 1. Active Participation
- 2. Skills
- 3. Legal Research Plan

PG - Engaged and Responsible, Active and Ethical Citizens

Our postgraduates will be ethically aware and capable of confident transformative action in relation to their professional responsibilities and the wider community. They will have a sense of connectedness with others and country and have a sense of mutual obligation. They will be able to appreciate the impact of their professional roles for social justice and inclusion related to national and global issues

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand the principles and values that underpin ethical research and academic honesty and apply them in own research.
- Understand the key elements of a research strategy and work-plan, and apply that to own research project

Assessment tasks

- 1. Active Participation
- 3. Legal Research Plan

Changes from Previous Offering

The weighting of the first and second assessments has slightly changed.

The tutorials for internal students has changed from two hours every two weeks to one hour every week.
