Unit description

Work and employment are basic social experiences. How can we understand them and why are they so important to us? This unit will search for answers by applying sociological key-concepts to contemporary Work and Employment issues. The unit consists of three parts. The first part examines the relevance of work for individuals and society. In the second part, we investigate the organisation of Work and Employment on a political, organisational and individual level. The final part deals with our experience of work. It contemplates the future of work in terms of work-life balance and the chances for individuals' self-realisation. On the basis of those three parts students will gain a clear understanding of work and employment in contemporary societies that will benefit their own careers as well as their understanding of society in general. All enrolment queries should be directed to Open Universities Australia (OUA): see www.open.edu.au

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.open.edu.au/student-admin-and-support/key-dates/>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. Identify the characteristics of contemporary work societies and the prevalence of work and employment for individual, organisational and social wellbeing.
2. Recognise the risks and opportunities originating in the organisation, structures and processes characterising work societies.
3. Integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments to understand the link between economic and social roles of work and employment for individuals and societies.
4. Students will learn how to think sociologically about work and employment.

General Assessment Information

How to get the most out of SOC(X)866 / SOCI705

SOC(X)866 / SOCI705 The Sociology of Work and Employment has a simple and easy to follow structure. It is based on the idea of learning in three ways: reading about, listening to and writing about fundamental questions related to work and employment in contemporary policy settings. Every week follows this pattern with a clear focus on a key question.

1. READING: The reading(s) provide you with essential information around a topic or issue. If possible, do the readings before you come / listen to the lectures.
2. LISTENING: Every lecture identifies and addresses a key question in relation to work and employment.
3. DISCUSSING AND WRITING: Once you have done the reading(s) and listened to the lecture, it is time to discuss with other students (online or in the on campus class) what you think about the readings, the topics raised in the lecture or examples from your own work experience. Finally, in the various assignments you articulate in writing in your own words what the weekly topic is about.

The assessments in SOC(X)866 / SOCI705 build on linking these three components of the course.

How to submit the assignments

The reflection task, the proposal and the final assignment have to be submitted via the turnitin links on iLearn by 11.59pm on the due dates. You can submit your assignment only ONCE! Please do not panic if you (for whatever reason) submit your assignment a few minutes late. We will not deduct marks for that. Your grades will be made available on gradebook on iLearn too, but remain subject to change until the end of the course and depend on your overall performance in the course.

If you have questions, need advice or want to discuss your assignment with the course convenor outside class room / online discussions, please email me directly (norbert.ebert@mq.edu.au).

Late Submission Penalty

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

How to deal with difficulties

The first rule is let me know asap and we will work out a way forward. The sooner I know, the sooner I can help. In particular, there is little I can do to help you once the due date of assignments has passed.

The second rule is, please raise general questions in class or the online discussion board before you individually email me. Often others have the same questions about referencing or contents related questions. Generally, the advice is to ask as early as possible and not avoid asking.

For issues affecting your performance, but which are unrelated to the course contents and prevent you from participating in tutorials or from submitting assignments or from completing the unit, please let me know and visit www.ask.mq.edu.au where you can submit the appropriate application including the required documentation. This is essential to grant you extensions in particular beyond the end of semester if required.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Participation	20%	No	ongoing
Reflection task 1 (2000 words)	30%	No	02/09/2018
Reflection task 2 (2000 words)	40%	No	28/10/2018
basic online exam	10%	No	09/11/2018

Participation

Due: ongoing

Weighting: 20%

Participation - online as well as on campus - means to think and discuss the weekly material on a particular topic with others. Your contribution will be assessed on the basis of your familiarity and understanding of the weekly course contents from the lecture and the reading(s). Discussion means further that you are required to engage with others. The focus is not so much the quantity, but the quality of your contributions.

The tutorials/online discussions will provide you with clear guidance on how to approach your assessments, what the key points are you need to know, include and define. This way, you automatically repeat, discuss and learn the course contents.

For external and OUA students participation on iLearn is mandatory, but internal students are welcome to join.

We expect you to post within a week from the lecture. 8 days after the lecture the discussion forums will close! Please manage your time to get the online discussion in on time and do not leave it to the last minute.

The course convenor will kick start the online discussion on the day after the lecture and wrap up the discussion before the next lecture summarising key points, correct major points (if necessary) and provide some general feedback for coming discussions.

Every week and lecture follows a key question. Answering this question in your own words and while doing so clarifying the course material is the guiding principle here. You need to also respond in a meaningful and substantial way to others.

IMPORTANT: Please follow the discussion and make your contributions on a weekly basis! The weekly topics move on quite quickly and late responses (for example, posting in week 3 when we are already in week 8) are not desirable.

For internal students participation requires class attendance on campus. Physical attendance only is not sufficient to pass the participation component for this class.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. Identify the characteristics of contemporary work societies and the prevalence of work and employment for individual, organisational and social wellbeing.
- 2. Recognise the risks and opportunities originating in the organisation, structures and processes characterising work societies.
- 3. Integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments to understand the link between economic and social roles of work and employment for individuals and societies.
- 4. Students will learn how to think sociologically about work and employment.

Reflection task 1 (2000 words)

Due: 02/09/2018

Weighting: 30%

The assessments in this course are linked and build on each other. The reflection task build on the class discussions, but goes a little bit further. The purpose is for you to learn how to articulate in writing the essence of a weekly topic.

The point of the reflection task is that you engage in depth with ONE of the weekly topics (from week 2-5) that has been covered before the due date.

The most important points to consider are:

- a) identify the key question / topic of the chosen week and give a short basic answer which you then explain/unfold in more detail.
- b) clearly name, define and explain in your own words the key concepts of the chosen week.
- c) refer to and reference the reading(s) of the chosen week to back up your key points and demonstrate your understanding of the reading
- d) identify a contemporary example that demonstrates the relevance of the key concept of the week.
- e) write and reference according to academic standards.

What you are NOT supposed to do:

- a) Do NOT exceed 2000 words.

b) Do NOT reference the lecturer or the lecture slides!

c) Do NOT copy the quotes used in the lecture from the reading into your assignment, but find your own.

d) Do NOT use readings or other materials other than the ones provided by the course.

The writing task is not an essay. It does not require an introduction or a conclusion. Focus on the key question / topic of the week.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. Identify the characteristics of contemporary work societies and the prevalence of work and employment for individual, organisational and social wellbeing.
- 2. Recognise the risks and opportunities originating in the organisation, structures and processes characterising work societies.
- 3. Integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments to understand the link between economic and social roles of work and employment for individuals and societies.
- 4. Students will learn how to think sociologically about work and employment.

Reflection task 2 (2000 words)

Due: 28/10/2018

Weighting: 40%

Same as Reflection Task 1, just better :-)

You can choose any topic from any week that has been covered up to this point except the week you have already covered with your first reflection task.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. Identify the characteristics of contemporary work societies and the prevalence of work and employment for individual, organisational and social wellbeing.
- 2. Recognise the risks and opportunities originating in the organisation, structures and processes characterising work societies.
- 3. Integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments to understand the link between economic and social roles of work and employment for individuals and societies.
- 4. Students will learn how to think sociologically about work and employment.

basic online exam

Due: 09/11/2018

Weighting: 10%

The final online examination consists of 10 basic questions regarding the definition of key concepts from the course.

The exam will be available on iLearn in week 13 on the 09/11/2018 and you can choose to start the exam at your discretion within a week. However, once you start the exam, you will have 40 minutes to finish it.

Make sure you save and submit your answers by the end of the 30 minutes, otherwise your answers will not register.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. Identify the characteristics of contemporary work societies and the prevalence of work and employment for individual, organisational and social wellbeing.
- 2. Recognise the risks and opportunities originating in the organisation, structures and processes characterising work societies.
- 3. Integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments to understand the link between economic and social roles of work and employment for individuals and societies.
- 4. Students will learn how to think sociologically about work and employment.

Delivery and Resources

Internal students are required to come to class. External and OUA students are required to listen to the recorded lectures on iLearn and participate in the weekly discussions which are set up per week on iLearn. The readings used in this course are available through a link on iLearn.

Online discussions are being delivered through iLearn.

Should you encounter any IT problems, please contact IT directly via One Help.

Policies and Procedures

Late Submission - applies unless otherwise stated elsewhere in the unit guide

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Extension Request

Special Consideration Policy and Procedure (<https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policies/special-consideration>)

The University recognises that students may experience events or conditions that adversely affect their academic performance. If you experience serious and unavoidable difficulties at exam time or when assessment tasks are due, you can consider applying for Special Consideration.

You need to show that the circumstances:

1. were serious, unexpected and unavoidable
2. were beyond your control
3. caused substantial disruption to your academic work
4. substantially interfered with your otherwise satisfactory fulfilment of the unit requirements
5. lasted at least three consecutive days or a total of 5 days within the teaching period and prevented completion of an assessment task scheduled for a specific date.

If you feel that your studies have been impacted submit an application as follows:

1. Visit Ask MQ and use your OneID to log in
2. Fill in your relevant details
3. Attach supporting documents by clicking 'Add a reply', click 'Browse' and navigating to the files you want to attach, then click 'Submit Form' to send your notification and supporting documents
4. Please keep copies of your original documents, as they may be requested in the future as part of the assessment process

Outcome

Once your submission is assessed, an appropriate outcome will be organised.

PG - Research and Problem Solving Capability

Our postgraduates will be capable of systematic enquiry; able to use research skills to create new knowledge that can be applied to real world issues, or contribute to a field of study or practice to enhance society. They will be capable of creative questioning, problem finding and problem solving.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 1. Identify the characteristics of contemporary work societies and the prevalence of work and employment for individual, organisational and social wellbeing.
- 4. Students will learn how to think sociologically about work and employment.

PG - Effective Communication

Our postgraduates will be able to communicate effectively and convey their views to different social, cultural, and professional audiences. They will be able to use a variety of technologically supported media to communicate with empathy using a range of written, spoken or visual formats.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 1. Identify the characteristics of contemporary work societies and the prevalence of work and employment for individual, organisational and social wellbeing.
- 3. Integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments to understand the link between economic and social roles of work and employment for individuals and societies.
- 4. Students will learn how to think sociologically about work and employment.

Assessment tasks

- Participation
- Reflection task 1 (2000 words)
- Reflection task 2 (2000 words)

PG - Engaged and Responsible, Active and Ethical Citizens

Our postgraduates will be ethically aware and capable of confident transformative action in relation to their professional responsibilities and the wider community. They will have a sense of connectedness with others and country and have a sense of mutual obligation. They will be able to appreciate the impact of their professional roles for social justice and inclusion related to national and global issues

Information for External Students

As an external or OUA student in SOC(X)866 / SOCI705 you are required to listen to the lectures online via iLearn and do the weekly readings.

Your tutorial is the weekly online discussion forum. What on campus students do in classes on campus, you do in the discussion forum. That is you will engage in the weekly topic to discuss the main points and concepts which are crucial for your assignments. It is your responsibility to "attend" online regularly. The online engagement is the foundation for your assignments. From experience students who engage in discussions are doing better in the assignments :-)
