Unit description

The purpose of this unit is to introduce students to new economic and legal aspects of sustainable development. Markets, regulatory strategies, taxes, financial institutions, investment approaches and the insurance industry have responded to some aspects of this global challenge. This provides the wider context for the changing role and legal obligations of the modern corporation. Corporate approaches to environmental management are studied in the light of new economic realities, requirements, risks and standards such as ISO 14001.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Describe the context within which corporate governance operates

Review and critique existing regulatory strategies in the domestic and international spheres

Understand and critically appraise the current discourse on corporate governance and how it links to sustainability

Discern problems and gaps in the manner in which the law seeks to govern for sustainability and consider reform

Examine alternative regulatory modes and assess the role of law in achieving justice

Critically analyse and solve problems collaboratively

Assess the effectiveness of domestic laws and global norms in the Global South/ less developed states
