Changes from Previous Offering

The textbook has been changed from Stone, Raymond, Managing Human Resources, 4th Edition, John Wiley & Sons, to Stone, Raymond, Managing Human Resources, 9th Edition, John Wiley & Sons.

Global Contexts & Sustainability

The Australian context is used as the base case to illustrate human resources functions in global contexts, and international organisations are used as case studies in some instances. Students are encouraged to share their knowledge of international experiences that may demonstrate consistency or contrast with local practice. There is one full lecture devoted to specific international contexts. Issues to do with sustainable HRM practice are incorporated.

Connections between the content of the unit and current research

1. Lectures and discussions are designed on the basis of the textbook and relevant scholarly research studies, with a constant theme being to integrate understanding of actual and emergent policy and practice with evidence on what happens, what works, and what is possible.
2. The individual essay requires students to locate and demonstrate their understanding of contemporary scholarly research in the light of concepts and issues covered in the textbook and lectures.
3. The assessment criteria of the group presentation includes research criterion which judges students' ability to relate research findings to their practical cases; to demonstrate broader literature knowledge and to critically evaluate HR practices using relevant and rigorous research.
