Unit description

In the city of Rome on 20 May 1347, a low-born notary called Cola di Rienzo declared the re-foundation of the ancient Roman Republic, pronouncing himself Tribune of the People. In distant Avignon, the Italian poet Petrarch hailed Cola as a hero for a re-newed era of Italian cultural and political greatness. His actions, and Petrarch's response, represent one of the first moments of the Renaissance--a political and cultural movement that idealized classical antiquity and looked to the past for answers to questions about identity, the nature of a moral life, the virtues of civil society, and human relationships with both the natural world and the divine. This re-birth of classical ideas and styles produced many of the most beautiful and enduring works of art and literature in the Western European canon. But the tensions between the ideals of classical antiquity and the realities of late medieval Europe also resulted in warfare, violence, and social and cultural upheaval. This unit explores why and how late medieval Europeans turned to the ancient world for answers and what happened when they attempted to re-create the classical point-of-view in the very different society of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Comprehend and explain the concept and idea of the Renaissance as both a historical period and a historiographical construct.

Evaluate and explain the multiple relationships between cultural production and power in Italy and northern Europe between 1350 and 1650.

Comprehend and assess the cultural and social changes that occurred in Italy and northern Europe between 1350 and 1650.

Read, comprehend, analyze, and evaluate a variety of primary and secondary sources and other material evidence.

Produce a self-directed research project on one aspect of Renaissance culture and/or society.

Synthesize understandings and evaluations into clear, specific arguments presented in grammatically correct prose with appropriate references.

General Assessment Information

Late Submission

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Turnitin will close at the deadline for submission of each written assessment task. Late submissions will need to be emailed direct to Dr. Baker and accompanied by an explanation for their lateness.

Extensions

Students who encounter difficulties in meeting the deadlines for written assessment tasks should apply for an extension via ask.mq.edu in advance of the due date. Students should familiarize themselves with the University's Special Consideration policy (see Policies and Procedures) before submitting such a request.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Reflective Journal Blog	20%	No	Assessed weekly - 09/06/19

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Primary Source Task	20%	No	22/03/19 (Week 4)
Annotated Bibliography	15%	No	05/04/19 (Week 6)
Research Paper	45%	No	31/05/19 (Week 12)

Reflective Journal Blog

Due: Assessed weekly - 09/06/19

Weighting: 20%

Each week from Week 2 onward students will post a short reflection on the readings and lectures for that week to the External Students' Blog creating a semester-long Individual Reflective Journal. Each post should be around 200 words in length and should address the connections between the lectures, the readings, and the weekly theme. Ten posts will count toward the final grade, so students may miss one week without penalty. Students will receive feedback in the form of comments each week and posts will be graded weekly. The final post must be made by 9 June.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Comprehend and explain the concept and idea of the Renaissance as both a historical period and a historiographical construct.
- Comprehend and assess the cultural and social changes that occurred in Italy and northern Europe between 1350 and 1650.
- Read, comprehend, analyze, and evaluate a variety of primary and secondary sources and other material evidence.
- Synthesize understandings and evaluations into clear, specific arguments presented in grammatically correct prose with appropriate references.

Primary Source Task

Due: 22/03/19 (Week 4)

Weighting: 20%

1,500 word analysis of a primary source or body of primary sources and construction of a research question or questions that will form the basis for the Research Paper.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Comprehend and assess the cultural and social changes that occurred in Italy and northern Europe between 1350 and 1650.
- Read, comprehend, analyze, and evaluate a variety of primary and secondary sources and other material evidence.

- Produce a self-directed research project on one aspect of Renaissance culture and/or society.
- Synthesize understandings and evaluations into clear, specific arguments presented in grammatically correct prose with appropriate references.

Annotated Bibliography

Due: 05/04/19 (Week 6)

Weighting: 15%

Annotated bibliography consisting of at least five (5) secondary sources relevant to the chosen research question, each with a 250-word assessment.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Read, comprehend, analyze, and evaluate a variety of primary and secondary sources and other material evidence.
- Produce a self-directed research project on one aspect of Renaissance culture and/or society.

Research Paper

Due: 31/05/19 (Week 12)

Weighting: 45%

Self-directed research paper of 2,500-3,000 words that answers the question developed in the Primary Source Analysis and Annotated Bibliography.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Comprehend and explain the concept and idea of the Renaissance as both a historical period and a historiographical construct.
- Evaluate and explain the multiple relationships between cultural production and power in Italy and northern Europe between 1350 and 1650.
- Comprehend and assess the cultural and social changes that occurred in Italy and northern Europe between 1350 and 1650.
- Read, comprehend, analyze, and evaluate a variety of primary and secondary sources and other material evidence.
- Produce a self-directed research project on one aspect of Renaissance culture and/or society.
- Synthesize understandings and evaluations into clear, specific arguments presented in grammatically correct prose with appropriate references.

Delivery and Resources

Classes

An online tutorial will be held each week through the iLearn site, giving students an opportunity to ask questions and check their understanding of the material.

Required and Recommended Texts

Required Texts

Required readings—including a variety of primary source documents and journal articles—will be listed week-by-week on the iLearn site and available through the University Library.

Per Faculty of Arts policy, all required readings are available on-line only but it is recommended that students print out the required readings and read them in hard copy as pedagogical research suggests that comprehension and recall are superior when reading hard copy text as opposed to reading on-line.

Recommended Readings

The following highly recommended general texts and source collections are available on Reserve in the MQ Library and/or available in electronic versions via the MQ Library.

Peter Burke The Italian Renaissance: Culture and Society in Italy (1999)

William Caferro Contesting the Renaissance (2011)

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.
